Lowell mill operatives received a 15 per cent increase on June 2 of this year. Although the labor men say that at present the local atmosphere appears clear they have no way of prognosticating future developments.

The Textile council met last evening and took action upon the reported stand of the American Woolen Co. in refusing to deal with organized union bodies and voted to call a meeting of all delegates of unions, connected with the council and of presidents and members of executive boards of textile locals for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The purpose of this meeting is to offer protest against the alleged stand of the American Woolen Co.

OPERATORS TO MEET GOVERNOR

Mine Owners in Penn. and Executive to Discuss Plans to Protect Miners

To Take Up Methods of Ending Strike — Milder Weather Brings Relief

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Operators in western Pennsylvania, which is a part of the central competitive field will meet Governor Sprout of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Monday to discuss plans for protecting miners wishing to return to work, according to statements made by them early this afternoon.

Neither candidate was inclined to conduct an outdoor speaking tour, feeling that his energy could be put to better advantage if concentrated on a comprehensive program of speech-making next week, the last before election day, Tuesday, Dec. 3. However, each was waiting to see what the other would do and finally they got in touch with each other and agreed to postpone outdoor work until Monday.

Those in close touch with the situation regarded this as the first indication of an attempt to break the strike in the highly organized central field.

Salvage Company Plans to Float Liner Sunk by Germans Off British Coast

PORLTAND, Me., Nov. 29—Count Krystyna Ostrowski, who will represent Poland as consul general to the United States, was among the passengers who arrived here from Liverpool on the steamer Merengie and is on his way to Washington today. He was accompanied by Countess Ostrowski.

Other passengers were Prince Radziwill, Count Ignace de Skarbeck, Viscount de Skarbeck, Baron E. De Waddeker and Countess Linden.

Baron Dewardeur, who was a major in the French army during the world war, is head of a salvage company, which, he said, will raise the Lusitania within 20 months. He said plans have been completed to float the steamship, which was sunk in about 300 feet of water, off the British coast, and she will again be in transatlantic service.

CITY ELECTION CAMPAIGN ON

Messrs. Thompson and Gilbride on the Stump in Mayoralty Fight

Will Not Speak This Evening—Many Rallies Next Week

The 1919 city election campaign has been formally opened with the mayoralty candidates, Mayor Perry D. Thompson and John J. Gilbride, taking the stump. Both aspirants for the chief executive's office made their opening addresses yesterday but neither of them will speak this evening, according to statements made by them early this afternoon.

GIVES HIS BLOOD TO SAVE WOMAN HE TRIED TO KILL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Florence Robinson, a comedy young matron, lying near death in a hospital, and Grover Gordon, little more than a youth, who because he said he loved her, yesterday shot the woman through the body, and for the same announced reason, 15 hours later kept her alive by giving his blood for transfusion to her veins, today were the principals in one of the most remarkable crime incidents in Washington police history.

The navy's goat, attired in a costly robe of blue, had the "edge" on the army's mule, because he had spent the evening in a room all by himself, on the 22nd floor of one of New York's best hotels, while the braying part of the army had to be content with sleeping quarters in a stable. The coats of the rival mascots were wagered on the outcome of the contest.

ARMY AND NAVY IN BIG GAME

Annual Football Battle at Polo Grounds Brings Out Great Crowd

Light Rain Made Gridiron Heavy and Slippery—Army the Favorite

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Unsettled weather today with prospects of rain failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the 45,000 ticketholders for the annual football battle between the army and navy football teams at the Polo ground this afternoon. A light rain which fell during the night made the gridiron heavy and slippery, a condition which handicapped the lighter eleven from Annapolis.

The game, the first to be played between Uncle Sam's rival service schools since 1916, on account of the war, attracted the usual colorful crowd.

High officials of the army and navy, and representatives of the diplomatic corps were among the rosters. Army gray and navy blue predominated in the great grandstands. The cadets and midshipmen arrived during the morning from West Point and Annapolis, respectively, and marched to the field, headed by their bands.

INCREASE IN WAGES IN LAST FIVE YEARS

A perusal of the payroll of the various municipal departments of this city for the present week and those of a corresponding week in 1914, or five years ago, unfolds many items of interest going to show that although the cost of living has advanced materially in that half decade, nevertheless, the reimbursement being received is at least a little beyond that paid five years ago.

On the other hand some of the positions which come under municipal control, especially the salaried jobs, have been at a standstill during this period. Others have shown material increases.

Not only do the present municipal payrolls show a decided increase in the amount of money which Lowell people are receiving for their labors, but a wage scale furnished by Cornelius P. Cronin of the local employment bureau shows that wages paid at the present time in those representative occupations by which most Lowell men and women earn their living also indicates an increase in wages in general. No comparison of this latter scale with 1914 figures is readily available but that a marked increase has come in the wages paid in practically every occupation is readily discernible.

The figures from the city hall payrolls have been taken at random. Starting with the mayor and municipal council, no change is noted in the salaries being paid today and those paid five years ago, but when it comes to the mayor's private secretary the man who holds down the job today is getting $10 a week while the incumbent in 1914 was paid only $23.01 for the same work.

Policemen in 1914 were getting $3 per day and today they receive $1.50. Inspectors of the board of health five years ago were getting from $15 to $27. Today their wages run from $26 to $35 per week.

The milk inspector today gets $24.73.

Five years ago he got $13.50. Firemen today get $1.50 per day but in 1914 they were given only $3.25 for their efforts. The water department laborers get $4 per day now but five years ago he was given $2.50. Street department laborers got from $2 to $2.50 five years ago but today their pay runs from $2.14 to $4.02 per day. Foremen in this department get $3 per day five years ago and today they get from $4.60 to $5.17.

The city sealers got $1200 five years ago and today gets $1500. The wire inspector's salary remains about the same. Street department pavers today get $5.75 per day and five years ago got $2.50. Their foremen got $1.00 in 1914 and today get $6.32.

School janitors got $900 a year in 1914 but in 1919 they receive $1265. Park department laborers got $2 five years ago but $1.25 is their average wage now. The attendance officers got $1500 five years ago and $2000 today. Clerks salaries among the women at city hall five years ago hovered between the $12 to $15 mark but today $24 is the prevailing average.

Figures furnished by the employment bureau show that blacksmiths get from 60 to 70 cents an hour in Lowell today; bricklayers $1 per hour, carpenters from 60 to 80 cents an hour, teamsters $21 per week, laborers from 40 to 45 cents an hour, machinists from 65 to 80 cents an hour, painters 60 cents an hour, plumbers $7 a day, women stenographers from $12 to $20 a week, telephone operators $14 per week, cotton weavers $20 to $25 per week, and woolen weavers from $28 to $36 per week. All of which are considerably higher than the amounts paid in these occupations five years ago.

GREAT RIVALRY IN DANCING CONTEST

With interest now at a high pitch in the big Merrimack valley championship dancing contest, the third preliminary will be held at Associate hall on next Tuesday night, and a large crowd is expected to attend. This will be the last chance to qualify for the final event to be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 3, when the remainder of the $200 in prizes will be distributed.

On next Tuesday night the winning couple will receive ten dollars in gold, while the others will be eligible to compete in the final event.

An out-of-town judge has been secured for Tuesday evening, while for the final event three competent judges from out of town will be brought here to select the winners.

The success of the contest to date has stimulated great interest and enthusiasm over the coming events, and the managers are being congratulated on their enterprise in conducting such a mammoth affair.

The music for the prize dance as well as for general dancing as supplied by Miner-Doyle's orchestra has been one of the most pleasing features of the concert, while Barney Horan's splendid vocal numbers have added much to the enjoyment of each evening. They will both be on hand in the coming events.

GERMAN MONUMENT ERECTED AT TARNOPOL TURNED INTO ALLIED MEMORIAL

TARNOPOL, Poland.—The German monument erected in honor of the then German emperor's visit to Tarnopol, in 1911, has been turned into an allied memorial.

During the occupation by the German troops the huge monument was erected, bearing the inscription, "William II, Emperor of Germany and King of Prussia, stopped here on July 28, 1917."

It was a division of Polish-Americans, members of the French army, that took the tools for the Poles, and they simply added this inscription, "And July 28, 1919, the Sixth Division of American Chasseurs entered the town. They stayed."

POLES SOLVING RAIL PROBLEM

New Notion in Control of All Transportation—America Helps

Experts Assist in Establishing System Owned By Government

BY HAROLD H. BECHTEL, European Manager of N.E.A.

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 23.—Poland has about 3000 miles of railways, 2300 locomotives and a proportionate number of cars, against which there is not a single bond or share of stock outstanding.

It is a debt-free national railway system, probably the only one in the world.

When Poland came into her liberty she simply took the railways and rolling stock within her borders—formerly German, Austrian and Russian state railroads—and began operations with a clean slate. Nobody had to be compensated.

That is the bright side of the Polish railroad situation.

The other side is: 18 per cent of the 2300 locomotives are in the repair shops; many of the cars need repairs; the Polish railways are made up of remnants of three entirely different systems; and it is still impossible to move food and materials where they are needed.

Added to this, the army requirements are great; rate schedules are imperfect, and there is of course an operations deficit in the budget.

General Pilusinski, the chief of the Polish state, told me that "when our transport difficulties are solved, the worst will be over."

The peace conference gave Poland a corridor to the Baltic sea, although the short Polish shore is sandy and has no good ports. But this corridor is especially valuable in the access it gives to the Danzig free state, where Poland gets free use of the great historic port.

The great inland waterway of Poland in the Vistula river which flows into the Baltic at Danzig. The new Poland is largely in the Vistula basin.

The government plans extensive improvements to increase transportation facilities and end the floods, but these improvements will be in the plan stage for years to come. Meanwhile the river is especially valuable for floating timber.

Poland already has the nucleus of a great network of canals and plans are drawn for the completion of the system.

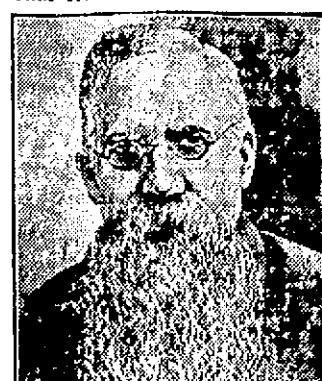

The transportation ministry is studying the use of motor trucks. They could be put into use at once. They could be shuffled about to meet the most urgent needs. And they might prove a permanent "find," more valuable for many purposes than little railways.

The government is getting the cooperation and advice of some of the best railroad men in America. The United States lent Poland the services of a railroad commission, headed by Col. A. B. Barber, and including Col. C. S. Caskill, an operations expert of the Pennsylvania lines, and Maj. T. R. Ryan. All these men had big parts in the record building and operation of the American railroads in France that fed the Pershing fighters.

The Poles have bought 150 engines from the Baldwin Locomotive Works, and negotiations are in progress for still more. The Baldwin contract runs Helpless In Bed With Rheumatism Until He Took "FRUIT-A-TIVES".

MR. ALEXANDER MUNRO

R.R. No. 1, Lorne, Ont. "For over three years, I was confined to bed with Rheumatism. During that time, I had treatment from a number of doctors, and tried nearly everything I saw advertised to cure Rheumatism, without receiving any benefit. Finally, I decided to try 'Fruit-a-tives' (or Fruit Liver Tablets). Before I had used half a box, I noticed an improvement; the pain was not so severe, and the swelling started to go down.

I continued taking this fruit medicine, improving all the time, and now I can walk about two miles and do light chores about the place."

DARING AIRMAN KILLED

Lost Life Attempting to Jump From One Plane to Another—Hundreds Look On

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 29.—Lester J. Miller, of Fort Wayne, Ind., formerly an army aviator, was killed here yesterday while attempting to jump from one airplane to another, 200 feet above the ground. Miller was swinging from a trapeze under his plane waiting for the other machine to maneuver into position when he lost his hold and plunged to earth with hundreds of people looking on. He was married here yesterday.

SALVAGE OPERATIONS ON THE BATTLEFIELDS OF FRANCE CRITICIZED

LONDON.—Civilian visitors returning from tours of the battlefields in France criticize the salvage operations still being carried on there.

"Men who ought to be back at their work in England are engaged in collecting useless scrap on every battlefield under the direction of officers who have lost all keenness for work since the war ended a year ago," commented one returning visitor.

"I spoke to two officers, each of whom told me that the value of the salvage would not compare with the money spent in the operations," said another.

Others say that the French are complaining of the presence of thousands of Chinese laborers engaged on this work laying out tennis courts or building useless army huts.

PROTESTS OF LEGIONERS AND MAYOR FAIL TO PREVENT KREISLER CONCERT

LYNN, Nov. 29.—Notwithstanding the opposition of the American Legion and the refusal of Mayor Creamer to grant a permit, Fritz Kreisler, violinist and former captain in the Austrian army, will play here on Sunday. It was announced last night. It was decided to give the concert when the city solicitor gave his opinion that if the program were arranged as a sacred concert, it would come under the jurisdiction of the state instead of the local authorities.

the Educational club members at the Y.W.C.A. this week on modern poetry.
The club will discuss current events at the meeting next Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Latham of this city, and James Hall, formerly of Lowell, were the guests of their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Corey of Woonsocket, R. I., on Thanksgiving day.

The engagement has been announced of Mr. Adelbert Ames, son of Gen. and Mrs. Adelbert Ames of Tewksbury, to Miss Fannie Hazen, daughter of the late Prof. John Vose and Mrs. Hazen of Hanover, N. H.

An enjoyable dancing party was staged by several of Lowell's Boy Scouts at St. Anne's parish house last evening and a large crowd— which included both young and old— attended the event. Broderick's orchestra furnished music. The matrons were Mrs. N. B. Burger and Mrs. Reuben
White and the committee in charge consisted of Calvin Burger, Charles Ellis and Prescott Wright.

A pleasant party was given, Mrs.
Lyndon Angove by her friends last evening, who met at her home in honor of her 40th birthday. Musical selections were given by Mr. Daley, Miss Lakin, Elmer Angove and Miss Annie McArdle. The last two named also offered an exhibition of modern dancing.
Games, refreshments, and general dancing were other features of a most enjoyable evening.

HOURS FOR CLINIC

The board of health today announced the hours for the new genito-urinary clinic which was formally opened last night. Women patients will be treated from 7 to 9 p. m. on Tuesdays and from 9 to 10 a. m. on Thursdays. Men patients will have their hours from 9 to 10 a. m. on Mondays and 7 to 10 p.
m. on Fridays. The clinic was formerly conducted at the Lowell Corporation hospital by the state department of health, but has been taken over by the local department to be conducted in the dispensary quarters in the basement of city hall. Dr. Harold Leland is in charge of the work.

Around the San Juan river in Colombia is located the greatest platinum field yet discovered.

COMMUNITY SERVICE WORK IN LOWELL

Community service work in Lowell is being backed by one of the best and most progressive organizations and systems in the east, say Community Service Inc. auditors who visited this city within the week. According to one of the auditors he has not seen any system in New England, New York or northern Pennsylvania to compare with the one in vogue here.

In addition to this fact, Community Service Inc. has recognized Lowell as one of the best opportunities for this work and that its development here has been more rapid and thorough than in almost any other city or town.
That this feeling is becoming more and more general is shown by the fact that Miss Ethel Ames, special magazine writer and formerly connected with the Washington Post and Boston Post, has been sent here to make a survey and study of local conditions as the basis for articles on community service work, taking Lowell as a model.

The girls' division of 1200 far out-strips any other similar club in New England and is the only one at present with a membership of more than one thousand.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a meeting of the club in Dutton street and a meeting of the Americanization committee will follow.

NAVAL RECRUITING STATION

Lowell naval recruiting station topped all sub-stations in the district in the number of recruits forwarded during the past week, three men having been signed up here. Naval recruiting appears to be in a slump just now. One reason given is the decision of the authorities to accept no applicants under 18 years of age.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Joseph Arthur Toupin and Miss Angelina Lavale were married yesterday at St. Louis' church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. E. J. Vincent. The witnesses were Messrs. Joseph Toupin and Elzear Lavale, fathers of the groom and bride, respectively. Mr. and Mrs. Toupin will make their home at 112 Mt. Hope street.

Reynolds—Higgins

The marriage of Mr. Michael J.
Reynolds and Miss Catherine A. Higgins took place Wednesday at the Immaculate Conception church, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O.M.I., pastor. The best man was Mr. Joseph Murphy, while the bridesmaid was Mrs. Wilfred L. Flynn.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The American Woolen Company hereby announces to its employees a plan of sick and accident benefits, effective noon, December 1, 1919. This plan will include every employee of the American Woolen Company and its subsidiary companies. The basis on which these benefits are computed is as follows:

No employee is insured under the plan who is not on the payroll of the Company on December 1st, 1919, working for full time and full pay. An employee who is not at work on December 1st, because of disability, will be insured from the date of his return to employment on full time and full pay. After December 1, 1919, new employees will be eligible when they have been in the employ of the Company for a period of six continuous months.

1. Those on the payroll December 1, 1919, and who have been employed for less than six months, will receive 40% of their average weekly income.

2. Those employed continuously over six months, and not more than one year, will receive 50% of their average weekly income.

3. Those employed continuously over one year, and not more than two years, will receive 60% of their average weekly income.

4. Those employed continuously over two years, and not more than three years, will receive 70% of their average weekly income.

5. Those employed continuously over three years, and not more than four years, will receive 75% of their average weekly income.

6. Those employed continuously over four years will receive 80% of their average weekly income.

No employee will receive less than $8.00 per week, nor more than $30.00 per week, regardless of his average weekly earnings.

These benefits will cover all cases of disability arising from sickness or accident, inside or outside of the worker's place of employment and are supplemental and in addition to the indemnities provided by the Compensation Acts of the different States where our mills are located, for accidents arising at occupation, to the extent of the difference between the indemnities provided for by the above plan and the indemnities provided by the Compensation Acts of such States, except that new employees hired after December 1, 1919, will only be entitled to benefits as provided by the Compensation Act until after they have completed six months' continuous service.

The benefits will begin only after seven days' loss of time, and will continue thereafter for a period not to exceed 26 continuous weeks, so that for accidents occurring at occupation the amount of indemnity paid beyond 26 weeks and the duration of indemnity beyond 26 weeks, shall be only that provided for by the Compensation Law of the State in which the mill in which an employee works is located.

Benefits for maternity cases, including any illness due to pregnancy, for employed women will be paid for a period of four weeks only, in amounts dependent on length of service, as outlined in the above plan.

These benefits are in addition also to the Group Life Insurance now in effect.

Further details of this plan will be announced later.

LOWELL WINS ANOTHER

Fifth Victory in Last Six Games—Worcester Out-classed

The "Jiggers" of Worcester attempted to check Lowell's winning streak at the Crescent rink last night but they never had a chance. Lowell completely outplayed the visitors and shot goals almost at will. Finally when the big horn sounded the count stood 10 to 1 and Lowell had won its fifth game in the last six.

Worcester opened under a handicap by using Maxwell at goal, in place of Mallory. Maxwell who played good game last year, had been out of the game until early this week. When Mallory was unable to play against Salem the other night, Maxwell was drafted and while he was a good player, as a result, manager of the Worcester five decided to hold him for a while at least. Both Mallory and Maxwell came here last night but the latter started in at goal, while Mallory sat on the side lines.

Lowell launched a bewildering attack right at the start and in short order sliced the big goals of Maxwell's team. Then it was enough, and Maxwell was yanked and Mallory rushed to the rescue. But the damage had been done. Lowell players had their eyes on the cage, and while Mallory prevented many of the Lowell drives from materializing five also gobbled him during the remainder of the game.

The famous Jiggers worked hard, in conjunction with Lonyo, Ted Taylor and Donnelly and Foley also cut loose, but their efforts were of no avail against the speedy Harkins crew.

Harkins and Davies worked to perfection out in front, while Griffith and O'Brien played wonderfully in blocking the Worcester defense men and occasionally got up to show their stuff.

Davies, once again, fine exhibition of kicking. In the scoring Davies tallied five, Harkins two and Griffith one, while Taylor hammered in a brace for Worcester and Donnelly got the other one.

The lineup, score and summary:

	WORCESTER
Davies, Jr.	1r. Taylor
Harkins, 2r.	2r. Harkins
Griffith, c.	c. Donnelly
O'Brien, b.	b. Foley

POLO NOTES

Salem increased its hold on first place by beating Fall River last night.

Lowell by winning last night went into third place—going up!

Hinkins worked hard and showed flashes of his old time brilliancy, but Griffith covered him effectively.

Maxwell started in at goal for Worcester, but after Lowell had scored five goals in quick order he was sent out and Mallory rushed to the rescue.

Worcester hasn't won a game in the Lowell cage since the present league was organized.

The roller skaters will hold forth at the Crescent rink tonight. A new organ has been installed and will play all the latests tonight.

Huefner, of Racine, Wisconsin, regarded one of the classiest goal tenders that the game has produced.

Johns, Providence, tonight, will make his first local appearance on Tuesday night when the Gold Bugs play here.

Bob Griffith, who also hails from Racine, says Huefner is a wonder and will make 'em all sit up and take notice.

Lowell continues to play pennant winning polo.

O'Brien's blocking and door work played an important part in the Lowell victory. He also scored a goal and long drive.

WHALERS WON
NEW BEDFORD, Nov. 29.—After holding the locals scoreless in the first period of polo last night the Providence defense weakened and enabled New Bedford to win, 8 to 1. Five rapid goals were scored in the second period and one more in the third which gave the Whalers the lead that was not to be denied. Bob Hart was the star of the game, having five of the eight goals to his credit.

WITCHES TRIM TIGERS
FALL RIVER, Nov. 29.—Salem defeated the Fall River last night in one of the most exciting games of the season, by a score of 9 to 2. Fall River scored three goals but lost one on a foul committed by Jean and Cusick. Hardy also got into the foul column. Alexander sustained a bad gash under the eye when he crashed into the boards. Williams starred.

FOOTBALL CLAIMED FIVE VICTIMS THIS YEAR

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Football, the roughest of American outdoor sports, claimed five victims during the 1919 season, which virtually closed with Thanksgiving day games, according to reports to the Associated Press today. The number of deaths—the lowest in years—was five less than in 1916 and seven under the toll of two years ago. There were 18 lives lost during the 1916 season, and 16 in 1915.

Development of the open style of play to supplant the dangerous smashing game is mainly responsible for the reduction in number of fatalities, the dangers of a dog-eat-dog game when the old style smashing game training, flying tackles and vicious offensive tactics, have been almost entirely eliminated in the style of football, with a corresponding decrease in the number of deaths.

Virtually all of the victims of the 1919 season were players participating in the game, none having died under strict physical requirements. Defenders of the popular college sport pointed out that, with one exception, the victims were high school players who entered the games without expert training.

The small number of fatalities this season was declared to be remarkable, the experts said, as the game was played more cautiously than before previous years.

The victims included Gardner Dow of New Haven, Connecticut, eleven, who died September 27 from concussion of the brain. He was injured playing against New Hampshire college.

The lineup, score and summary:

LOWELL, 10; WORCESTER, 4; NEW BEDFORD, 2; PROVIDENCE, 2; SALEM, 6; FALL RIVER, 2.

Summary: Score—Lowell 10, Worcester 4, New Bedford 2, Providence 2, Salem 6; Fall River 2.

TO MY FELLOW-CITIZENS:

I am opening my campaign for re-election as Mayor of your city. It is my purpose to present to you fair and reasonable arguments in support of my candidacy. I welcome also, fair and reasonable discussion of my administrative acts from my opponent.

—Let us hope it will not go beyond that mark.

I have served one term as Mayor, and ask that which is naturally in the heart of any man who has served one term in a public capacity—Re-election—as an approval and endorsement of his public service. I appeal to your sense of fairness and justice to grant me this honor, provided, of course, you feel satisfied that I have measured up to the requirements of office. IN BUT VERY FEW INSTANCES IN THE PAST FIFTY YEARS have you denied the Mayor of your city re-election. Surely my public service has not been of such a derogatory nature as to justify a withdrawal of that courtesy and reward.

IT IS MY PUBLIC ACTS, HOWEVER, UPON WHICH I STAND FOR RE-ELECTION.

I am prepared to defend my public service while in the office of Mayor.

If my opponent starts out to interpret my official acts, which he naturally will do, let him also in the same breath point out in what manner he would have acted differently, and how he would have improved and bettered the particular situation he may speak about. Let us have constructive rather than negative arguments in this campaign. Let us have well defined policies for improved public conditions rather than gratification of personal ambition, however laudable it may be. Pointing out alleged imperfections in one's opponent does not necessarily give superior qualification to him who makes such allegations. It is individual capacity that counts, and which interests you in the present campaign.

The issue is simply this:—I have been Mayor of your city the past two years. THE MOST STRENUOUS TWO YEARS IN THE CITY'S HISTORY. Have I conducted the affairs of the office with its tremendously increased duties and responsibilities sufficiently able and well to justify your expression of continued confidence in me for a second term? I will try and prove to you, my fellow citizens, that I have.

PERRY D. THOMPSON, MAYOR,

(Advt.)

A White House Christmas (To Master James A. Garfield, Washington)

Jimmiekins:

'Among all the presents I got I don't think there was one I appreciated more than yours; for I was brought up to admire and respect your grandfather, and I have a great fondness and esteem for your father. It always seems to me as if you children were being brought up the way that mine are. Yesterday Archie got among his presents a small rifle from me and a pair of riding boots from his mother. He won't be able to use the rifle until next summer, but he has gone off very happy in the riding boots for a ride on the calico pony Algonquin, the one you rode the other day. Yesterday morning at a quarter of seven all the children were up and dressed and began to hammer at the door of their mother's and my room, in which their six stockings, all bulging out with queer angles and roundities, were hanging from the fireplace. So their mother and I got up, shut the window, lit the fire, taking down the stockings, of course, put on our wrappers and prepared to admit the children. But first there was a surprise for me, also for their good mother, for Archie had a little Christmas tree of his own which he had rigged up with the help of one of the carpenters, in a big closet; and we all had to look at the tree and each of us got a present off of it. There was also one present each for Jack the dog, Tom Quartz the kitten, and Algonquin the pony, whom Archie would no more think of neglecting than I would. I am going to get your father to come on and try it soon. We have to hit as light as possible, but sometimes we hit hard, and today I have a bump over one eye and a swollen wrist. Then all our family and kinsfolk and Senator and Mrs. Lodge had our Christmas dinner at the White House, and afterwards danced in the East room, closing up with the Virginia reel.

May and Duffy both are very popular here. Their aggressive and clever work appealed to the fans and the audience. The coming match will undoubtedly be pleasing news to the followers of the ring game.

Coming after that sensational Downes-Brown bout of the holiday, the coming event looks like another thriller.

Moy and Duffy are among the top fighters in their class. They are evenly matched in regard to weight and reach and when they get together the fur is sure to fly.

Young Nerney, of Centralville, who was ready to go through with his match with Avilla on the holiday, but was disappointed because of the failure of the latter to come to an agreement with the referee, met Jim Owens in the semi-final of eight rounds. Nerney is in great shape, having trained carefully for the past two weeks. He is still engaging in light work and feels confident that he will win. There will be two preliminaries.

Kil Merton, of Peoria, Illinois, who is now trying in this vicinity and training at Martin's Fighting Gymnasium has received several very favorable offers to box in New Jersey. Herman made his debut here a week ago

TO RETURN BODIES OF ACTUAL CONDITION OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS

HUNGER STRIKE AT ELLIS ISLAND BROKEN

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Efforts to return the bodies of American soldiers soon are being continued, regardless of the officially expressed attitude of the French government against permitting American exhumations before the same privileges are accorded French families. The American embassy has presented to the foreign office a note from Washington, setting forth the desire of the American people to have their dead in their own country as soon as possible.

Brig. Gen. W. D. Conner, commander of the American troops in France, recently held a meeting with the French authorities to discuss the procedure in exhumations when the time comes for removal of the bodies. Despite the French official attitude against allowing the Americans to remove their dead while the French must wait, it is said to be the feeling in some French quarters that it would be difficult to refuse the Americans if pressure were exerted.

It is pointed out that the French have more than a million bodies of their own, which would require much time to remove, that the Americans are far ahead of the French in grouping and identifying their bodies, and that the number of American dead is slight compared with either the British or French.

The Belgians are so near to France that it is believed they have less reason to urge their wishes. The present situation is that the government decree continues the former military prohibition against removal of the dead of any nationality from the "war zone," where nearly 50,000 Americans are buried.

There is no law or decree preventing the removal of nearly 20,000 American dead from the "interior zone," but the reg tape involved in getting the authorization of mayor and departmental prefects in each individual case makes it necessary to devise a plan to get authorization from the government if the 20,000 Americans are to be removed from the interior zone.

The proposed law to postpone exhumations probably until January, 1922, would, however, prohibit the removal of the bodies from either the war or interior zones. One article of this law, which the last chamber of deputies did not reach, provides exceptions in the case of any previous agreement with France's allies.

Thus far the American negotiations have been limited to general representations covering all the American dead.

The socialist deputies, De Guise and Ringerot of the Aisne department have informed the president of the chamber of deputies that they will introduce a bill when that body convenes asking the government to assume the expense in connection with the transfer of the bodies of French soldiers from battlefield graves to their native village cemeteries.

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1833 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form.

In 1883 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This product HORLICK named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps in any climate, has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

Ask for HORLICK'S—Avoid Imitations

EXPLOSION KILLS MAN ON TRANSPORT

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—The Charlestown navy yard at 6:20 last night received the following radio message from the transport President Grant, then 250 miles southeast of Boston, bound from New York to Brest:

"At 2:30 p.m., Nov. 28, L. G. Pellegrine, first assistant engineer, was killed and W. F. O'Connor, third assistant engineer, was dangerously injured by the explosion of an acetylene torch. No other casualties. No material damage."

The first message, telling of an accident in the engine room of the big transport, was received about 3:30, when she sent a radio stating there had been an explosion on board, and giving her position as 40°18' N latitude and 64°36' W longitude.

While the strikers have refused to state the cause of their refusal to eat, it was understood that they were protesting against being detained in the city jail. They had asked to be transferred to the county jail, where other alleged I.W.W. were held, but this was refused because the cells there were full.

The prisoners have not eaten for 42 hours. They also have refused to talk to their jailers.

THE NATION'S OPPORTUNITY

Owing to the delay in dealing with the important matters of reconstruction, this nation is losing great opportunities of establishing profitable trade relations with foreign nations.

At the present time, it seems that Germany is outstripping most of the nations of Europe in the work of overcoming the effects of the war. German factories are settling down to work ten hours a day and the employees are willing at all points to work an hour extra without increase of pay in order to aid the government in getting the nation back to a prosperous condition.

Moreover, the state of exchange works in Germany's favor to such an extent that some of the nations with which she was at war will find it necessary to purchase her supplies.

France is among those that are face to face with such a necessity; but this will require an explanation. France is not going to trade with an enemy nation in preference to a brother in arms except for an insuperable reason.

Here is how the exchange difference works. The French franc before the war was worth about 27 per cent more than the German mark; now it is equal to about four marks. Before the war the American dollar was worth a little more than five francs, now it is worth nine and one-half francs or thirty-eight German marks. Hence it appears that French francs would go several times as far in buying commodities in Germany as in the United States.

Is it any wonder that France in her impoverished condition is obliged to buy some of the things she urgently needs from her former enemy for whom she has no friendship?

Disparity of exchange is also more or less of a handicap in the markets of England; but here the exchange difference is likely soon to be overcome.

The delay in putting our merchant marine into operation will undoubtedly give other nations, especially England and Germany, an opportunity to forestall us in the leading markets of the world. Both the nations mentioned are making active efforts to capture the markets of the South American republics at our doors, and yet we are still wrangling over side issues, mainly for political reasons and still supposed to be at war with Germany.

As a result we are losing the best opportunity for world trade that ever presented itself to any nation. It is true, the foreign nations need credit and that an association of American bankers has been formed to deal with that problem; but the bankers' need the cooperation of the government and the public.

A conference of Pan American representatives of the financial interests of the South American republics is to meet at Washington January 12, to discuss credit and trade questions; but the manner in which things at Washington have gone to smash, is rather discouraging. Still some satisfactory arrangement may be made through this conference under which our business with those countries may be increased or protected.

But the great opportunity of the hour is to send our raw materials and our machinery to Europe to help the stricken nations in the work of reconstruction. It is a call that appeals to all the people of this land as offering opportunities almost equal to those of war days, if industrial troubles could be put aside and all our energies applied for the purpose of increasing production.

THE MEXICAN TROUBLE

As usual, some of the sensational papers are beginning to work up a sentiment in favor of war with Mexico. The country has had enough of war for the present, and it is in order to wind up the war we have just gone through before taking on another.

It is very easy to say that we should "go down and clean up Mexico." There are many false reports coming from Mexico relative to the doings of the government and the bandits, and while it is undoubtedly true that Americans have been abused down there, it is equally true that there is a movement on foot to involve this nation in war with Mexico in behalf of certain American interests which are engaged in business in Mexico. Some of them are trying to acquire monopolistic control in certain lines of industry and they could overcome Mexican opposition much better if the United States intervened to "compel the Mexicans to behave."

There are elements in this country that would welcome trouble with Mexico, because it would offer them a better opportunity to make trouble here at home. They would side with Mexico as against us. Then it is not impossible that Mexico would call in the aid of Japan who for a territorial quid pro quo might be disposed to espouse the cause of our southern neighbor.

It is reported that Mexico is importing ammunition from England, for what purpose we know not; but while our jingo newspapers talk of our neighbor may be excused if she takes steps toward preparation for a break that is openly threatened.

For a nation that has avowed such undying friendship for us, as has England, it is hardly in line with such good will, to be helping the southern republic to arm against us. But of course it is purely a commercial matter in which England has a right to sell ammunition to all comers. It was on this score that we justified our course in selling munitions of war to the allies, claiming that with equal readiness we should sell to Germany if she would only come and carry it away.

It is possible that some day in the not distant future, we may find it necessary to have a long reckoning with Mexico; but to precipitate a real war at this time would place this nation in a very complicated if not a dangerous position, not that we could not handle Mexico alone. That would require at least one million men and if other powers lined up with Mexico, it would require still more. As we have said we want to clear up the loose ends of one war before entering upon another. But we may have to send an army down there for a special purpose as on former occasions; but it will not mean a declaration of war.

THE COAL STRIKE

It seems that Fuel Commissioner Garfield has been seriously disappointed in his efforts to settle the coal strike. With the manner in which the government started out, people were led to believe that it would settle the strike within a few weeks at most, but Mr. Garfield has been in conference with both sides in the controversy and after a great deal of deliberation he has merely decided that the miners are entitled to a 14 per cent increase in wages which will give them a total increase since 1913, corresponding to that of the cost of living.

The commissioner did not take up any of the other questions involved, such as hours of labor and other matters on which the miners have forth their grievances. He has wisely avoided the plan so frequently adopted in the past of granting a liberal increase to be passed on to the consumer. For this he is to be commended as this mode of piling on to the ultimate consumer must stop somewhere.

That is what has spoiled the railroad brotherhoods and has helped to send the cost of living skyward. The mine leaders have indignantly repudiated the offer of a 14 per cent increase as they had asked for 60 per cent and See. Wilson tentatively committed himself to 31 per cent. Thus the matter of wages is complicated and the parties are now no nearer to an agreement than they were at the outset.

Occasionally we find a clergyman lending his influence to the radical movement as represented by socialists and other brands of Bolshevism. This seems a degradation of the high calling of a religious minister. At the present time, it is necessary for pulpit, press and every other influence for good in the land to stand boldly against the elements that openly seek the overthrow of our free government through revolutionary methods.

Clergymen who preach against such evils are not heard as often as they might and if some of them spoke often outside their pulpits they would exert a potent influence for good.

it becomes a question whether the soft coal miners of the country, under their leader, Mr. Lewis, are a greater power than the United States government. That remains to be determined.

HARD WORK WINS

The king and queen of Belgium are back home in Brussels after what it is hoped they will always remember as a pleasant journey through the United States. When this royal pair first returned to their home about a year ago after four years of exile enforced upon them by the kaiser, the collars of the Belgians, according to a remark of Brand Whitlock, "seemed to fit rather loosely."

But things are different now. Belgians are fattening up. Things are going well in the little country that will always stand forth in history as the great martyr of the war. The thrift, independence and industries temper are showing big results, as they always do. The Belgians have a reputation of being about as hard working as any people in the world. Skilful and resourceful, too, as their production of giant Belgian hares and giant horses proved.

The country excels in the number of small land-owners—about one man in every six; and only about 30 per cent of its people live in the large cities. Reconstruction work is proceeding rapidly. The country was not ravaged as was northern France by the Germans. Their own necessities imposed upon the invaders limits to their tendencies of wanton destruction. As a gateway to the lands beyond the Rhine, the Belgians have a commercial opportunity of which they are now, as formerly, taking full advantage. Belgium, the first to feel the full shock of modern war, is well on the road to recovery and the world rejoices.—N. E. A.

SENATOR LODGE'S FIGHT

United States Senator Lodge boasts that he is fighting President Wilson in opposing the League of Nations and that if necessary, he will carry the issue over to next year to be fought out in the national campaign. One would not suppose from this that President Wilson's fighting days are over.

The senator, in our judgment, does not elevate himself in the public esteem by making any such declaration. But if he carries the league controversy into next year's campaign, he should become a presidential candidate and fight the issue squarely before the people.

In this respect he would be the logical candidate of the opposition to the League of Nations and treaty in its present form. We should then have two presidential aspirants from Massachusetts, as the governor's boom on account of his attitude in the Boston police strike is still resounding throughout the land.

Unless the treaty is ratified, however, before the political conventions are held next year, Senator Lodge can hardly fail to be put forward as the representative of all the elements throughout the country that stand opposed to the League of Nations. Were he set up as a candidate on such a platform ex-Senator Crane would east the Bay State vote against him.

HOME RULE IDEA

It is announced that Sir Edward Carson is not out opposing the new form of home rule for Ireland. For that there is a very good reason which is that the plan has his approval which is proof sufficient that it contains nothing of real value to Ireland. It divides Ireland on sectional lines intended to perpetuate religious animosities as now represented by Mr. Carson in one corner of the island. No true friend of Ireland wants to see the country divided on such lines. It is tantamount to dividing the country against itself.

As a final step to save the country from a coal famine, Commissioner Garfield, with the approval of the cabinet, has decided to seize the mines and offer ample protection to all the miners who wish to return to work. If none of them return, he will have to find other men to take their places in order to mine the necessary coal, as the people of the country cannot be allowed to freeze, nor can the industries be forced to shut down for want of fuel.

It is to be hoped that the fuel commissioner will be successful in carrying out his plan inasmuch as the miners by their refusal to accept the increase offered have set the government at defiance, and now

How's Business?

It happened in the county criminal court room the other day. The prosecutor was examining a witness for the defense, who manifested a very unfriendly feeling for the state's attorney. T's usual questions were asked the man and finally the prosecutor asked: "My man, you don't rather heavily, don't you?"

"That's my business," was the fiery retort.

"Mr. Turbulence," according to an Associated Press dispatch, "said the president received no gifts which would have required an act of Congress for him to accept. The king of Italy presented the president two old guns and the king of England gave him a book."

It seems to us that Mr. Turbulence is unduly caustic toward the reasonable curiosity of the public. What was the book which the king of England gave to the president? We assume, of course, that it was "The Young Visitors," and that Turbulence withheld the name for fear the Senate might begin a two weeks' debate to decide whether it was written by J. M. Barrie or Daisy Ashford.—Heywood Brown in New York Tribune.

The Cow Peasant.

The nutrition experts of the department of agriculture await with interest the publication of the method whereby Prof. G. W. Carver of Tuskegee Institute claims to have produced from peanuts a milk that is a good substitute for cow's milk. They say that this may very well be true, inasmuch as the peanut contains all the requisite elements, including "protein" of a superior and highly digestible kind. Milk is a "perfect food," one could live on it for a long time. The same is at least measurably true of peanuts. Already we have peanut butter, the production of which nowadays is enormous. Why not peanut milk? It is merely a question of finding out how to make it. Prof. Carver claims to have solved the problem. He says that his peanut milk is exceedingly wholesome and can be made at a cost much less than that of cow's milk, which it closely resembles. At present he is continuing his experiments to determine the keeping and cooking qualities of his product. Cow's milk is 35 per cent water, 4 per cent fat, 4% per cent sugar and 3% per cent protein. Prof. Carver's task has been not only to make a milk from peanuts, but to reproduce

MAN ABOUT TOWN

A young man known at this office, while hunting in the woods of Tewksbury, came upon a litter of pups about three days old, in a sheltered nook, under a pine tree, on damp ground and otherwise exposed to storm and cold. He heard the barking of a dog as he approached and supposed it was the mother getting out of the way as he came near. It is rather unusual for the mother dog to abandon her puppies in this manner, but that was what she did. The young man, after looking over the nest of canine babies, gathered a few branches and made them into a sort of protection against rain or snow and finally took two of the ten little ones with him to be reared at his home. That was on Monday last, and on Tuesday he went back to the scene, bringing some food for the mother, but again she made her escape as he approached, and he had no opportunity to see what she looked like beyond the fact that she was brown, rather low and probably of the bull type. The puppies were quite lively, although whining at the absence of the mother. How they fared under the rain of Tuesday night and Wednesday is not known, and unless relief comes from some quarter before the severe cold sets in, they can hardly survive. The nest was over a quarter of a mile from the nearest house and nobody in that neighborhood had reported the loss or absence of any dog answering the meager description.

It was supposed that the animal might have been brought to the woods by hunters and had been unable to return with them, but how she will secure food so far from any house is difficult to see. I am informed by a man acquainted with the habits of dogs that in case the mother has any home, she will carry them thither, one by one, in her mouth as cats carry their kittens. The strangest thing about this affair was the very unusual lack of spirit in the mother in leaving her young unprotected at the approach of what she felt to be danger. One would naturally suppose that, like any decent dog, she would stand her ground and protect them, but just at that particular time she must have been in a weak physical condition and may have been suffering from hunger as well as from the effect of her illness.

The extreme danger to young boys in the deplorable practice of stealing rides on trams and automobiles and even street cars in some instances, was never brought more forcibly to mind than one late afternoon recently when a huge truck, carrying cotton bales piled high above the sideboards passed us in Westford street. We judged the rate of speed to be in the vicinity of 18 or 20 miles an hour. Hanging by their arms to some part of the truck beneath the cotton bales, which stuck out from the rear end at least two feet, were two boys—youngsters of perhaps 10 years. They wanted to stop, but couldn't or dared not, but every few yards allowed their feet to touch the pavement in an attempt to drop off. The speed of the truck was greatly in excess of their maximum, however, and their legs actually were swept from the street as they pulled them up again. The pair may have been shouting to the driver to stop, but of course he could not hear and undoubtedly had no idea they were there. We watched them spellbound until the truck passed from sight. We hope their ultimate escape was unattended by accident or bruises and that the experience taught a never-to-be-forgotten lesson.

URGES CONTINUANCE OF SEACOAST DEFENSES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Necessity for the maintenance of defensive works at important and strategic points along the coasts of the United States is no less patent today than before the war with Germany. In the opinion of Major General William M. Black, chief of engineers. In his annual report, published today, General Black declared that "seacoast defenses had lost nothing in importance from the lessons of the war" adding: "Rather was the extreme value of such works demonstrated. The Turkish forts at the Dardanelles served to prevent the taking of Constantinople and the opening of a line of supply for Russia. This instance alone, in its far-reaching consequences, proved the worth of seacoast defenses."

General Black expressed the opinion that heavy ordnance on railway mounts, "must be considered simply as auxiliary defenses" to the fixed and permanent works.

SWITCH OFF!

Put aside the Salts, Oil, Calomel, or Pills and take "Cascares."

Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure, and fresh with Cascares, or merely whipping them into action every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Oil, or Purgative, Water?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascares gently cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the colon and bowels all the constipated waste matter and poisons so you can straighten up.

Cascares tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, or cause any inconvenience, and cost so little, too.—Adv.

EXTEND TIME FOR BRIDGE REPAIR

Following yesterday's conference of public service commission and local officials on the matter of repairing the Lawrence street bridge over the Concord river, Prof. Lewis E. Moore, representing the commission, said that the city would be given an extension of six months before the street railway company would cease to operate its cars across the structure. Originally the date was set for December 1 but, on the promise of local officials that immediate steps would be taken to repair the bridge, the extension was granted.

CLUB'S OLD QUARTERS VACANT
The old home of Club Lafayette in Merrimack street is now vacant for the last time. The organization moved into its new quarters, the old Bowes castle on Wannalancit street. Last evening a large number of members inspected the new quarters and all seemed elated with the new place. The annual meeting of the club will be held next Thursday evening, at which time directors for the ensuing year will be chosen. The reports of the treasurer and secretary will be heard and arrangements will be made for the formal opening of the new clubhouse, which may be in the form of a ladies' night some time during the month.

OLDEST LETTER CARRIER

Charles A. Holden, Civil War
Veteran and Veteran Mail
Distributor

The oldest letter carrier in Lowell, both from the standpoint of years and continuous service, is Charles A. Holden. For 45 years has this veteran mail man been familiar figure in the downtown district, who at the age of 76 years is, to quote his superior officer, Postmaster Meehan, "one of the most efficient and reliable men in the department."

And he enters into his 46th year in Uncle Sam's service as full of enthusiasm as he did in August, 1874, when he received his appointment to the local force.

"I like my work" is the way Mr. Holden accounts for his long term of service. "And," he adds, "when a man likes his work he's going to stick to it just as long as ever he can. And I'm sticking."

Mr. Holden lives at 33 Moore street with his family. Sometimes, 'tis whispered, he gets home just a trifle late for supper, and then his family knows that he has been playing a little game of "pitch" with "the boys" and indulging in some reminiscences, perhaps, of the olden days when he was only a youngster on the force.

And it was of those days, when the Spindie City was much smaller place than in this present year of grace, that he chose to talk to a Sun man last evening.

"Ten" declared the veteran mail man the while he settled himself comfortably in his "favorite" chair and watched the smoke curling upwards from his glowing pipe, "yes, things certainly have changed since I began my work as a Lowell letter carrier. I don't believe that if the ghost of the year 1874 came walking through the city today that he'd be able to find his way about at all. Things have surely changed a lot."

"I've been working on the same route since the day when I was first appointed," he added. "Only I had to cover a lot more territory in those days. Now I just handle the centre of the business district downtown, but then my route was fully three times as large, and extended over into Centralville and Belvidere and other sections adjacent to Merrimack square. And you know when I began the force was considerably smaller than it is today. I should say so. There were only seven of us, and folks from the outlying parts of the city had to hitch up the horse and buggy every day and call for their letters themselves. Or else they'd have to use shank's mare."

"We didn't work union house in those days," he continued, with a twinkle in his eyes. "We went to work before breakfast and hustled around the office a while. Then we'd rush back for a bite to eat and go out on our routes. After supper we had to go back and help out on the clerical end. I guess I averaged 14 hours every day for the first few years."

"But now a mail man only works eight hours a day; and that's a much better schedule, to my way of thinking. Don't you agree with me?"

And the reporter, who in these modern days seldom knows whether his work will be finished in time to beat the milkman home, emphatically allowed that he was right.

"I started in at the old postoffice in the Hildreth building," continued Mr. Holden. "It wasn't a very big place, either. The postoffice occupied only a small part of the street floor of the building—but of course, the city was much smaller then. E. T. Rowell was my first 'boss' and we all liked him. My salary was only $500 a year, but in those times $500 a year would go much farther than twice that amount today. And a man could buy all the sugar he needed, too."

"Cigarettes were unknown in those days—at least in Lowell. And a girl's complexion was original, too. Not manufactured as many of them are today. They looked nicer, too, I think."

"Some folks used to think that the hoop skirts the young women wore were then were queer, but if they saw the tight, narrow affairs some girls wear now, they'd decide the hoops weren't so queer after all, I imagine."

"I think folks then used to dance more than they do today. The waltz and schottische were the favorites. Nowadays it's mostly one-steps and fox trots. But give me the old dances any time."

"Central street was much different then. Most all of the old landmarks have given way to more modern structures."

ture. There was a big church where the old B. & M. depot is now on Central street, and another church at Chaffoux's corner."

Referring to the days before he became a mail man, when he served in the cavalry under Gen. Sheridan in '63 and '64, that veteran letter carrier said that war in those days was surely what Gen. Sherman said it was.

"I enlisted early in '63," said Mr. Holden. "And I was quite a bit of fighting before I was wounded and taken prisoner late in the summer. A bullet came my way while we were fighting in the valley of the Shenandoah, and afterwards the rebels made me a prisoner. The wound wasn't very serious, however, and later during an exchange of prisoners I was returned to the Union lines."

And with that Mr. Holden bade the reporter good night.

FUNERAL NOTICES

GILL—The funeral of Frank Gill will take place on Monday morning at 8 o'clock from his late home, 106 Grand st. Funeral high mass of requiem will be sung at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. Burial will take place in St. Peter's cemetery. Undertakers N. W. McDonough Sons in charge. Motor cortège.

APPLIN—The funeral of Henry April will take place tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Josephat Vaillancourt, 806 Moody street. Services at St. Jean Baptiste church at 2 o'clock. Burial in St. Joseph's cemetery. Motor cortège. Funeral arrangements in charge of Undertakers Amédée Archambault & Sons.

BURKINSON—Died in this city, Nov. 23, at her home, 59 South Whipple st. Mrs. Caroline Erickson, wife of Carl Erickson, aged 62 years, 10 months and 28 days. Funeral services will be held at her home, 59 South Whipple street, on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends are respectfully invited. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertaker William H. BURNS—Died in this city, Nov. 23, at his home, 281 Market st. Andrew J. Burns, 62 years. The funeral will take place Monday morning at 9 o'clock from his home, 297 East Merrimack street. A solemn high funeral mass will be celebrated at the Immaculate Conception church at 10 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons. Motor cortège.

DEATHS

BURNS—In the death of Andrew J. Burns at St. John's hospital yesterday afternoon the Belvidere section of the city has lost one of its most prominent residents in the Immaculate Conception parish one of its highly esteemed members. Mr. Burns was 52 years old and had been ill only a short time. His acquaintance was not confined merely to Belvidere but extended throughout the city. His daily duties as custodian of hundreds of downtown buildings whereby he made hundreds of friends by his untiring service, and his various fraternal affiliations won him a widespread acquaintance. He was a man of likeable character, frank in disposition and true friend to all he knew.

He was an essentially devout man whose spiritual devotion found practical reflection in daily acts of kindness. His passing leaves a material void in that assembly of lofty-minded worthies who content to find themselves in the simple acts of everyday life. Mr. Burns was a member of Bishen Delany assembly, fourth degree Knights of Columbus, the Lowell Lodge of Elks and Industry council, Royal Arcanum. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna (Delaney) Burns; two sons, Alfred A. Burns, 21, and Philip, 19, two daughters, Mrs. Alice Buckman and Mrs. James Gordon, Jr., four grandchildren, Herbert C. Harry O. and Doris M. Carlson and Myrtle C. Buchanan, all of this city; also by a brother and a sister living in Sweden. Mrs. Erickson was a member of the Swedish Congregational church.

FUNERALS

MERCIER—The funeral of Paul Mercier was held from the home of his parents, 141 Middlesex st., yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Albert G. Warner, assistant pastor of the First Baptist church. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The bearers were Dan and Lillian Clark, Charles and George and Philip. Burial was in the Westlawn cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George W. Ivey.

FROST—The funeral of Thomas Frost was held from his home, 62 First street, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Oliver L. Johnson, pastor of the High Street Methodist Union church. Appropriate selections were sung by Edward Wirt and Mrs. George E. Burns. A delegation of the Passaconaway Tribe of Red Men exemplified the burial ritual of the order at the service. Delegations were sent from the American Legion from Centralville Lodge, I.O.O.F., Pilgrim Encampment, Captain Pawtucket, I.O.O.F., Lowell Lodge, Loy. Order of Moose and Echo Lodge, N.E.O.F.

The bearers were Willis E. Morse, Charles H. Ringer, Walter D. Merrill, George W. Ivey, George and Frank Goss. Burial took place in the family lot in Westlawn cemetery, under the direction of Undertaker J. A. Weinbeck.

GREEN—The funeral of Richard D. Green took place this morning at 11 o'clock from the home of his parents, Arthur M. and Genevieve Williamson Green, 411 Central st. Burial took place in St. Augustine cemetery, Worcester, Mass. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons.

SANTOS—The funeral of Jose Santos took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of his parents, John and Rosa Espinosa Santos, 11 Cady st. Services were held at St. Anthony's church at 4 o'clock, the prayers being read by Rev. Fr. Perry. Burial took place in St. Patrick's cemetery. Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons in charge.

LASALLE—The funeral of Emilio Lasalle, who died at St. John's hospital yesterday, took place last evening from the funeral parlors of Undertaker Joseph Albert in Aiken street. The body was placed aboard the 5:10 o'clock train to Montreal, Que., where burial will take place.

DONNELL—The funeral of Lucy A. Donnell took place this morning at 8:30 o'clock from the residence of Mrs. Winifred A. Brick, 1 Pleasant street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The cortège proceeded to the Immaculate Conception church where at 9 o'clock a funeral mass was sung by Rev. Owen McQuaid, O.M.I. The choir under the direction of Mr. Charles P. Smith rendered the Gregorian mass. The colors being carried by Mr. Walker, also presided at the organ. There were many spiritual bouquets. The bearers were George Nawn, Edward Reed, Martin Sullivan and Dennis Sullivan. At the grave Rev. Fr. McQuaid, O.M.I. read the committal prayers. The burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

BANDITS DISAPPEAR

Telephone Operator Notified

Police When Receiver Was

Knocked From Hook

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 29.—Two masked bandits entered the office of the Fuller Construction Co. in the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co., building at 3:30 this morning, hit the watchman with a sandbag, bound him and attempted to enter the paymaster's office where $4000, the payroll, was in a safe. A telephone operator heard the struggle when the receiver was knocked from the hook and notified the police. They surrounded the building, but found no trace of the bandits.

4000 Volunteers to Dig Coal

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 29.—Preparation for the resumption of coal mining operations in Kansas under a state receivership went forward today with the prospect, according to an announcement by Governor Henry J. Allen, that a daily output of 10,000 tons would be realized by the middle of next week, if work could be started promptly.

Approximately 4000 men had volunteered their services as coal diggers, state officials said. Miss Neva Colville, an official of the Young Women's Christian Association at Wichita, has proffered her aid in superintending the cooking for the workers.

Early movement of army supplies and equipment for the volunteers, was expected as a result of a conference in Kansas City between Governor Allen and Major General Leonard Wood.

Concerted Effort to Open Mines

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 29.—Today marked the first concerted effort by operators in the Indiana coal fields to bring about resumption of operation of mines tied up by the strike of United Mine Workers of America on Nov. 1. Mine owners posted notices that the increase of 24 per cent proposed by Fuel Administrator Gardner would become effective at once, and some operating companies added that miners would be guaranteed the difference between the scale just offered and the scale that may be finally decided upon.

It was stated that it probably will be next week before there will be any definite idea of how the miners of the state will accept the proposal.

Miner Weather Brings Relief

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Immediate results in increased production of bituminous coal were not expected today to follow the government's announcement that it proposes to see mining begin and posting at the shafts by the operators of notice of the granting of a 14 per cent. wage increase. Operators looked upon the latest steps in the miners' strike with optimism, however, and believed that on Monday many workers would re-enter the mines. Saturdays and Sundays generally have been regarded as at least part holidays in the coal fields.

Miners' spokesmen generally predicted that few men would return to work under the new conditions, believing that the offer would be ignored, especially in the great fields of the central competitive area, embracing Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and western Pennsylvania.

Milder weather today over much of the country which for two days past was in the grasp of unseasonably low temperatures brought some relief.

Many small cities and towns, however, were almost fuelless and suffering was imminent.

Restrictions on Use of Coal

With radical restrictions on use of fuel in force in many places, notably Kansas City, Mo., Omaha, Neb., and Indianapolis and the entire southern region, state and local officials today considered further means of warding off a famine.

In Kansas, Governor Allen went ahead with plans for opening up the strip pits Monday. He said 4000 men had volunteered and he conferred last night with Major General Wood, commander of the central department of the United States army. Meanwhile the domestic situation in Kansas was described as critical, extremely low temperatures and snow and sleet storms over the entire state making it necessary to delve deeply into short fuel supplies.

Calling of a conference of governors of the coal producing states for Monday or Tuesday at Chicago by Governor Gardner of Missouri, awaits statement of a definite plan of action by the federal government for reopening of the mines. Should the government decide to take over the mines, Governor Gardner said, the conference would not be called, but otherwise he would issue the call "to see what the governors could do."

All Working in Wyoming

Announcement that all mines in Wyoming were being worked was among the encouraging reports from the production fields. Possibility of settlement of the strike in Illinois also brought some encouragement.

New Walkouts in the West Virginia field, from which most of the bituminous coal mined since the strike was called, has come, threatened to reduce the approximately 40 per cent. of a normal amount the government said would continue to be brought out in all states.

A walkout of engineers and pumpers at some of the southern Illinois mines also was reported. This was the first report that such employees had deserted their posts. Generally they, with sufficient other workmen to protect the property, were left at the mines when the strike was called.

Miners Under Arrest

At Gallup, N. M., 25 striking miners were under arrest. Military authorities ordered them taken into custody when they attempted to hold a meeting without obtaining a permit. Three wagon loads of arms were seized.

Secretary of War Baker had before him a request from Governor Robertson of Oklahoma, for troops to be sent to that state to protect men who desired to re-enter the mines.

Korea once had a custom by which men had to wear skirts until they were married.

Navy Defeats Army 6 to 0

45,000 People Witness Big Gridiron Battle on New York Polo Grounds

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Forty-five thousand pilgrims from the north, south, east and west fought their way into the Polo Grounds today to see the Army and Navy clash on the gridiron for the first time since the United States entered the war.

The navy's goat, attired in a costly robe of blue, had the "edge" on the army's mule, because he had spent the evening in a room all by himself, on the 22nd floor of one of New York's best hotels, while the braying pug of the army had to be content with sleeping quarters in a stable. The coats of the rival mascots were wagered on the outcome of the contest.

The insistent but vain demand for tickets continued up to the start of the game. Officials said that interest had never before been so great in the history of the series, which dates back to 1890. Tickets brought fancy prices from spectators.

SECOND PERIOD

After the teams changed goals, the Navy, in three line plunges made a first down on their own 40-yard line. The Cadets' defense stiffened, and the Navy punted in the Army's 20-yard line. On the second lineup, the Cadets punted the ball back to the Navy's 47-yard line. Hero White replaced Keiffer as left end for the Army. The middies steadily batted at the center of the Army line. Benoit made it first down on the Army's 42-yard line. Clark and Cruise with similar plays made another first down on the Army's 33-yard line. Clark, from a fake forward pass formation made eight yards around White's end. Clark followed with a dive off the Army's left tackle for first down on the soldiers' 23-yard line. Benoit punted up four yards outside of the Army's right tackle. The third play was simply a shift across the field to get in front of the goal posts.

From the Army's 25-yard line King kicked a field goal. Score: Navy 0, Army 0.

The kick was made from scrimmage placement, the ball being held by Capt. Ewen. Army put the ball in play with a kickoff from their 40-yard line which was caught by Koehler who was thrown on the Navy's 35-yard line. A drive through the soldiers' tackle gave the middies eight yards. A drive by Curtis through the same position made it first down on the Navy's 48-yard line.

Before the next lineup Herrick replaced Vogel at right guard for the Army. Gregory also replaced Lystadt at left halfback for the Army. Cruise made four yards outside of Travis. Clark, in a mass attack at center added three more. Then he dropped back and punted for a touchback over the Army goal line. West Point, from their 20-yard line made five yards inside of Captain Ewen. The Navy line here held and while the Navy stands still for a drop kick, Captain McQuarrie punted out of bounds on the Navy's 29-yard line. Benoit pierced the Army's left wing for seven yards and here the second period ended. Score: Navy 0; Army 0.

2500 Out at Maynard—Agitation for Action in Lawrence and Other Cities

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 29.—Several New England cities today faced threatened strikes of textile workers. In Fall River, union leaders were preparing for a strike of 35,000 operatives Monday morning, while 30,000 mill workers in New Bedford were notified to vote today and tomorrow on the question of taking similar action.

More than 2500 operatives are out at the Assabet mills at Maynard because of the strike 13 days ago of 700 weavers who refused to work with 40 operatives of a rival union. Agitation for immediate action by workers if mill operators refuse proposed wage demands was reported active in Lawrence and other textile centers.

Neither candidate was inclined to conduct an outdoor speaking tour, feeling that his energy could be put to better advantage if concentrated on a comprehensive program of speech-making next week, the last before election day, Tuesday, Dec. 3. However, each was waiting to see what the other would do and finally they got in touch with each other and agreed to postpone outdoor work until Monday.

Tomorrow both Messrs. Gilbride and Thompson will address a number of club gatherings and, on Monday noon, will hold rallies at places to be announced later. Mr. Gilbride expects to go to the car barns in Middlesex

SALVATION ARMY CHRISTMAS KETTLES

Salvation Army Christmas kettles appeared on the down town streets today and many a shilling silver coin—with here and there a green back—was tossed into them by passers-by who brought themselves of the manner in which the "Salvies" cared for Uncle Sam's doughboys overseas.

The object of the kettle solicitations is to raise a fund which will enable the local corps to give every needy family in the city a bountiful holiday dinner basket, and several hundred youngsters a Christmas tree.

Fully $1000 will be needed to carry out this program, according to Adjutant Klepsig, commander of Lowell's "Salvies" and he hopes that the people of the city will "keep the pot a-boiling" until this sum is secured.

"No house-to-house solicitations for this fund will be made this year, but the Salvation lasses will be out in force every day until Christmas, commencing next Friday. And there is little doubt in the minds of the Jissies that the public will "keep the pot a-boiling" until this sum is secured."

Those in close touch with the situation regarded this as the first indication of an attempt to break the strike in the highly organized central field.

The call for the meeting said the purpose was to harmonize details of the proposed 14 per cent wage advance, but methods of bringing the strike to

FRANCE GETS 10 GERMAN "SUBS"

Supreme Council Continues Consideration of Allotment of German Naval Tonnage

Allowance Made to France Because of Inability to Build During War

PARIS, Nov. 29.—France is to be awarded 10 of the German submarines, the supreme council decided today in continuing its consideration of the allotment of German naval tonnage among the allies. France is allowed this number of submersibles, it is explained, because during the war, she was unable to build to the extent of others of the allies, her plants being devoted to the making of munitions for the use of all.

The present understanding is that the remainder of the submarines will be broken up. (Despatches from Paris yesterday said the supreme council also had decided that France would get at least five light cruisers and 10 torpedo boats for reasons identical with those given in the allotment of the submarines. Italy, it was stated, was likewise to get a similar allotment of the smaller warships.)

GREAT RIVALRY IN DANCING CONTEST

With interest now at a high pitch in the big Merrimack valley championship dancing contest, the third preliminary will be held at Associate hall on next Tuesday night, and a large crowd is expected to attend. This will be the last chance to qualify for the final event to be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 9, when the remainder of the $200 in prizes will be distributed.

On next Tuesday night the winning couple will receive ten dollars in gold, while the others will be eligible to compete in the final event.

An out-of-town judge has been secured for Tuesday evening, while for the final event three competent judges from out-of-town will be brought here to select the winners.

The success of the contest to date has stimulated great interest and enthusiasm over the coming events, and the managers are being congratulated on their enterprise in conducting such a mammoth affair.

The music for the prize dance, as well as for general dancing as supplied by Master Doyle's orchestra has been one of the most pleasing features of the concert, while Barney Moran's splendid vocal numbers have added much to the enjoyment of each evening. They will both be on hand in the coming events.

GERMAN MONUMENT ERECTED AT TARNOPOL TURNED INTO ALLIED MEMORIAL

TARNOPOL, Poland.—The German monument erected in honor of the then German emperor's visit to Tarnopol in 1917, has been turned into an allied memorial.

During the occupation by the German troops the huge monument was erected, bearing the inscription, "Wilhelm II, Emperor of Germany and King of Prussia, stepped here on July 28, 1917."

It was a division of Polish-Americans, members of the French army, that took the town for the Poles, and they simply added this inscription, "And July 4, 1919, the Sixth Division of American Chasseurs entered the town. They stayed."

LOWELL'S DEATH RATE

Lowell's death rate for this week was about that of last week. There were 23 deaths, in comparison with 22 last week and 30 two weeks ago. The rates were 11.09, 10.53 and 11.45, respectively. There were eight deaths of children less than five years old and seven of these were of children under one. Infectious diseases caused one death, pneumonia, three; bronchitis, one, and diphtheria one. Infectious diseases reported included diphtheria, six; scarlet fever, 19 and tuberculosis, three. The scarlet fever report shows more cases than have been recorded here for some time.

Salvage Company Plans to Float Liner Sunk by Germans Off British Coast

PORLTAND, Me., Nov. 29—Count Krysztof Ostrowski, who will represent Poland as consul general to the United States, was among the passengers who arrived here from Liverpool on the steamer Megantic and is on his way to Washington today. He was accompanied by Countess Ostrowski. Other passengers were Prince Radziwill, Count Ignace de Skarbeck, Viscount de Skarbeck, Baron E. Devereux and Countess Linden.

Baron Dewardener, who was a major in the French army during the world war, is head of a salvage company, which, he said, will raise the Lusitania within 20 months. He said plans have been completed to float the steamship, which was sunk in about 300 feet of water, off the British coast, and she will again be in transatlantic service.

INCREASE IN WAGES IN LAST FIVE YEARS

A perusal of the payroll of the various municipal departments of this city for the present week and those of a corresponding week in 1914, five years ago, unfolds many items of interest going to show that although the cost of living has advanced materially in that half decade, nevertheless, the reimbursement being received is at least a little beyond that paid five years ago.

On the other hand some of the positions which come under municipal control, especially the salaried jobs, have been at a standstill during this period. Others have shown material increases.

Not only do the present municipal payrolls show a decided increase in the amount of money which Lowell people are receiving for their labors, but a wage scale furnished by Cornelius F. Cronin of the local employment bureau shows that wages paid at the present time in those representative occupations by which most Lowell men and women earn their living also indicates an increase in wages in general.

Added to this, the army requirements are great; rate schedules are imperfect, and there is of course an operations deficit in the budget.

POLES SOLVING RAIL PROBLEM

New Notion in Control of All Transportation—America Helps

Experts Assist in Establishing System Owned By Government

BY HAROLD B. BECHTOL, European Manager of N.E.A.

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 29.—Poland has about 2000 miles of railways, 2300 locomotives and a proportionate number of cars, against which there is not a single bond or share of stock outstanding.

It is a debt-free national railway system, probably the only one in the world.

When Poland came into her liberty she simply took the railways and rolling stock within her borders—formerly German, Austrian and Russian state railroads—and began operations with a clean slate. Nobody had to be compensated.

That is the bright side of the Polish railroad situation.

The other side is: 42 per cent of the 2300 locomotives are in the repair shops; many of the cars need repair; the Polish railways are made up of remnants of three entirely different systems; and it is still impossible to move food and materials where they are needed.

Added to this, the army requirements are great; rate schedules are imperfect, and there is of course an operations deficit in the budget.

General Piluski, the chief of the Polish staff, told me that "when our transport difficulties are solved, the worst will be over."

The peace conference gave Poland a corridor to the Baltic sea, although the short Polish shore is sandy and has no good ports. But this corridor is especially valuable in the access it gives to the Danzig free state, where Poland gets free use of the great historic port.

Frank W. Morse, formerly general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and women earn their living also indicates an increase in wages in general.

No comparison of this latter scale with 1914 figures is, readily available but a marked increase has come in the wages paid in practically every occupation is readily discernible.

The figures from the city hall payroll have been taken at random. Starting with the mayor and municipal council, no change is noted in the salaries being paid today and those paid five years ago, but when it comes to the mayor's private secretary the man who holds down the job today is getting $40 a week while the incumbent in 1914 was paid only $23 for the same work.

Policemen in 1914 were getting $3 per day and today they receive $4.60. Inspectors of the board of health five years ago were getting from $15 to $27. Today their wages run from $28 to $35 per week.

The milk inspector today gets $34.73. Five years ago he got $13.60. Firemen today get $4.60 per day but in 1914 they were given only $3.25 for their efforts.

The water department laborers gets $4 per day now but five years ago he was given $2.25. Street department laborers got from $2 to $2.30 five years ago but today their pay runs from $3.74 to $4.02 per day. Foremen in this department got $3 per day five years ago and today they get from $4.60 to $5.17.

The city sealer got $1200 five years ago and today gets $1600. The wire inspector's salary remains about the same. Street department pavers today get $5.73 per day and five years ago got $2.50. Their foremen got $4.00 in 1914 and today get $6.32.

School janitors got $200 a year in 1914 but in 1919 they receive $265. Park department laborers got $2 five years ago but $4.25 is their average wage now.

The attendance officers got $1500 five years ago and $2000 today. Clerks' salaries among the women at city hall five years ago hovered between the $12 to $18 mark but today $24 is the prevailing average.

Figures furnished by the employment bureau show that blacksmiths got from 60 to 70 cents an hour in Lowell today, bricklayers $1 per hour, carpenters from 60 to 80 cents an hour, farmhands from $10 to $100 per month, teamsters $21 per week, laborers from 40 to 45 cents an hour, machinists from 55 to 60 cents an hour, painters 60 cents an hour, plumbers $7 to $12 a day, women telephoners from $12 to $20 a week, telephone operators $14 per week, cotton weavers $20 to $26 per week and woolen weavers from $28 to $35 per week. All of which are considerably higher than the amounts paid in these occupations five years ago.

Lagasse Fined $200 for the Unlawful Keeping of Liquor

Convicted of unlawful keeping of liquor and maintaining a liquor nuisance, Justice Lagasse was fined $200 in police court today. Rosa Poulin, the second defendant named in the charge, was found not guilty. The case is a result of recent raid made by the liquor squad on a Suffolk street house, in which the police allege that a quantity of liquor was found.

Found Not Guilty

Omer Beneault was charged with reckless driving and refusing to show his license. According to testimony Beneault's auto collided with machine owned by Ralph A. Norwood of Westford, whose car was stopped at the scene of the smash-up on the Tyngsboro boulevard the evening of Oct. 25, in which several local people were badly injured. He was ordered discharged on both charges.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Stocks were under further pressure at the opening of today's brief session, the shorts again making the most of unfavorable conditions at home and abroad. Reactions of 3 to 15 points marked the early movement in numerous industrials and especially notably American General Motors and Crucible Steel. On the rebound of the second hour, some of these losses were recovered in part or whole. Oils reacted moderately with shipments and metals but those issues also made parallel movements. A few leaders, including U. S. Steel and Westinghouse rails, showed moderate gains toward the end. The close was irregular. Sales approximated 750,000 shares. Sales approximated 750,000 shares.

LOWELL WINS ANOTHER

Fifth Victory in Last Six Games—Worcester Out-classed

The "Jiggers" of Worcester attempted to check Lowell's winning streak at the Crescent rink last night but they never had a chance. Lowell completely outplayed the visitors and shot goals almost at will. Finally when the score was 10 to 4, Lowell had won its fifth game in the last six.

Worcester opened under a handicap by using Maxwell at goal, in place of Mallory. Maxwell won and had a good game last year, but he has been out of the game until early this week. When Mallory was unable to play against Lowell the other night, Maxwell was "drafted" and he played a whale of a game. As a result the manager of the Worcester five held him for a while at least. Both Mallory and Maxwell came back last night with the latter starting at goal, while Mallory sat on the side lines.

Lowell launched a bewildering attack right at the start and in short order slipped five big goals by Maxwell's pads. That was enough, and Maxwell was yanked and Mallory rushed to the rescue. But the damage had been done. Lowell played well, their eyes on the game, and while Mallory had many of the Lowell drives prevented materializing five also got by him during the remainder of the game.

The famous "Jigger" worked hard, in combination with Lanky Lee Taylor and Donnelly and Foley also cut loose, but their efforts were not avail against the speedy Hawkins and O'Brien.

Hawkins and O'Brien worked to perfection out in front, while Griffith and O'Brien played wonderfully in blocking the Worcester defense men and occasionally going up to shoot.

Pence at goal gave a fine exhibition of kicking. In the scoring Davies tallied five, Hawkins two, Griffith two and O'Brien one, while Taylor hammered in a brace for Worcester and Donnelly got the other one.

POLO NOTES

Lowell increased its hold on first place by beating Fall River last night.

Lowell by winning last night went into third place—going up!

Higgins worked hard and showed off his old time brilliancy, but Griffith covered him easily.

Maxwell started in at goal for Worcester, but after Lowell had scored five goals in quick order he was sent off and Mallory rushed to the rescue.

Worcester hasn't won a game in the Lowell care since the present league was organized.

The roller skaters will hold forth at the Crescent rink tonight. A new organ has been installed and will play all the latest tonights.

Huefner, of Racine, Wisconsin, regarded as one of the classiest goal tenders that the game has produced, comes to Providence tonight. He will make his first local appearance on Tuesday night when the Gold Bugs play here.

ADAIR AND DONLEY DRAW

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 28.—Barney Adair of New York and Mickey Donley of Newark, N. J., lightweights, fought a 12-round draw here last night.

Bob Griffith, who also hails from Racine, says Huefner is a wonder and will make 'em all sit up and take notice.

Lowell continues to play pennant winning polo.

O'Brien's blocking and floor work played an important part in the Lowell victory. He also scored a goal and long drive.

WHALERS WON

NEW BEDFORD, Nov. 29.—After holding the locals scoreless in the first period of polo last night the Providence defense weakened and enabled New Bedford to win, 8 to 2. Five rapid goals were scored in the second period and three in the third which gave the Whalers a lead that could not be denied. Bob Hart was the star of the game, having five of the eight goals to his credit.

WITCHES THIN TIGERS

FALL RIVER, Nov. 28.—Salem defeated Fall River last night in one of the roughest games of the season, by the score of 6 to 2. Fall River scored four goals but lost one on a foul committed by Jean and Custer. Hardy also got into the foul column. Alexander sustained a bad gash under the eye when he crashed into the boards. Williams starred.

FOOTBALL CLAIMED FIVE VICTIMS THIS YEAR

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Football, the roughest of American outdoor sports, claimed five victims during the 1919 season, which virtually closed with Thanksgiving day games, according to the Associated Press today.

The number of deaths—the lowest in years—was less than in 1918 and 1916, when 16 lives were lost during the 1916 season, and 16 in 1915.

Development of the open style of play to supplant the dangerous smash-gum is mainly responsible for the decreasing number of fatalities, in the opinion of gridiron experts. The danger of a dozen years ago, when the game was still more like hunting, flying tackles and vicious offensive tactics, have been almost entirely eliminated in the style of football, with a corresponding decrease in the number of deaths.

Virtually all of the victims of the 1919 season were players participating in games not conducted under strict physical requirements of the founders of the popular college sport, nor put out against the speed. Hawkins and O'Brien, and Taylor worked to perfection out in front, while Griffith and O'Brien played wonderfully in blocking the Worcester defense men and occasionally going up to shoot.

TO RETURN BODIES OF ACTUAL CONDITION OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Efforts to return the bodies of American soldiers soon are being continued, regardless of the officially expressed attitude of the French government against permitting American exhumations before the same privileges are accorded French families.

The American embassy has presented to the foreign office a note from Washington, setting forth the desire of the American people to have their dead in their own country as soon as possible.

Brig. Gen. W. D. Connor, commander of the American troops in France, recently held a meeting with the French authorities to discuss the procedure in exhumations when the time comes for removal of the bodies. Despite the French official attitude against allowing the Americans to remove their dead while the French must wait, it is said to be the feeling in some French quarters that it would be difficult to refuse the Americans if pressure were exerted.

It is pointed out that the French have more than a million bodies of their own, which would require much time to remove, that the Americans are far ahead of the French in grouping and identifying their bodies, and that the number of American dead is slight compared with either the British or French.

The Belgians are so near to France that it is believed they have less reason to urge their wishes. The present situation is that the government decree continues the former military prohibition against removal of the dead of any nationality from the "war zone," where nearly 50,000 Americans are buried.

There is no law or decree preventing the removal of nearly 20,000 American dead from the "interior zone," but the red tape involved in getting the authorization of mayor and departmental prefects in each individual case makes it necessary to devise a plan to get authorization from the government if the 20,000 Americans are to be removed from the interior zone.

The proposed law to postpone exhumations probably until January, 1922, would, however, prohibit the removal of the bodies from either the war or interior zones. One article of this law, which the last chamber of deputies did not reach, provides exceptions in the case of any previous agreement with France's allies.

Thus far the American negotiations have been limited to general representations covering all the American dead.

The socialist deputies, De Guise and Ringuier of the Aisne department have informed the president of the chamber of deputies that they will introduce a bill when that body convenes asking the government to assume the expense in connection with the transfer of the bodies of French soldiers from battlefield graves to their native village cemeteries.

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1835 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form.

In 1883 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This product HORLICK named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps in any climate, has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF YOUR WATCH Proper Care Necessary. Its Importance ANNUAL CLEANING DESIRABLE

Finally, if you value your watch, have it cleaned once a year; or if you are in a place where there is much dust, often. Nothing is saved by allowing a watch to run without attention.

The giant locomotive is oiled and cleaned several times a day and goes through a general overhauling at stated periods. So why not give the delicate and faithful watch that keeps ticking away with precision each second a bit of oil once in a while. Its pivots are set in jewels so thin that a shock shatters them. Let them be split at one point and every turn of the wheel is a rasp that cruelly bites into the soul of the time-piece.

MAN ON TRANSPORT

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—The Charlestown navy yard at 6:20 last night received the following radio message from the transport President Grant, then 260 miles southeast of Boston, bound from New York to Brest:

"At 2:30 p. m., Nov. 28, L. G. Peilgrine, first assistant engineer, was killed and W. F. O'Connor, third assistant engineer, was dangerously injured by the explosion of an acetylene torch. No other casualties. No material damage."

The first message, telling of an accident in the engine room of the big transport, was received about 3:50, when she sent a radio stating there had been an explosion on board, and giving her position as 40.18 N latitude and 64.36 W longitude.

Continued

No of Textile Operatives, called for a strike Monday morning after receiving the refusal of the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' association to grant a 25 per cent. wage increase to become effective Dec. 1. A request by Mayor James H. Kay, to postpone action until next Wednesday, was refused by union leaders.

General Strike Ordered

MATTHEW, Nov. 29.—A strike of all members of the United Textile Workers of America employed at the Assabet mills of the American Woolen Co. here was ordered today, effective Monday morning. The order, it was announced at a meeting of the union, came in a telegram from John Golden, president of the United Textile Workers.

The reason for the strike was not stated. Conditions at the mills have been unsettled for several weeks, and two weeks ago weavers holding cards in the U.T.U. walked out in protest against the employment in the mills of members of a rival organization. Leaders of the union announced subsequently that the mill officials had refused to deal with the union, and it was understood that recognition of the United Textile Workers had become the issue. The Assabet mills employs approximately 3000 persons, of whom the United Textile Workers claim a large majority as members.

DIAMONDS

Of all the treasures provided by mother earth for the adornment of man (and more especially of woman) diamonds easily rank first in importance. Aside from the pleasure and satisfaction they afford the possessor they enjoy the unique distinction of having the commercial value that is constantly increasing. It is well known that the supply of diamonds is greatly reduced, and further advance in price is inevitable.

We have on display a very complete line of diamond mounted jewels, rings, bar pins, lavalieres, wrist and pendant watches. A diamond selected now will be held for Christmas.

AND REMEMBER that we guarantee that a diamond will be an investment by promising to pay to you five per cent. more than what you paid for it one year from date of purchase in cash. THINK IT OVER!

THE NATION'S OPPORTUNITY

Owing to the delay in dealing with the important matters of reconstruction, this nation is losing great opportunities of establishing profitable trade relations with foreign nations.

At the present time, it seems that Germany is outstripping most of the nations of Europe in the work of overcoming the effects of the war. German factories are settling down to work ten hours a day and the employees are willing at all points to work an hour extra without increase of pay in order to aid the government in getting the nation back to a prosperous condition.

Moreover, the state of exchange works in Germany's favor to such an extent that some of the nations with which she was at war will find it necessary to purchase her supplies.

France is among those that are face to face with such a necessity; but this will require an explanation. France is not going to trade with an enemy nation in preference to a brother in arms except for an insuperable reason.

Here is how the exchange difference works. The French franc before the war was worth about 27 per cent more than the German mark; now it is equal to about four marks. Before the war the American dollar was worth a little more than five francs, now it is worth nine and one-half francs or thirty-eight German marks. Hence it appears that French francs would go several times as far in buying commodities in Germany as in the United States.

Is it any wonder that France in her impoverished condition is obliged to buy some of the things she urgently needs from her former enemy for whom she has no friendship?

Disparity of exchange is also more or less of a handicap in the markets of England; but here the exchange difference is likely soon to be overcome.

The delay in putting our merchant marine into operation will undoubtedly give other nations, especially England and Germany, an opportunity to forestall us in the leading markets of the world. Both the nations mentioned are making active efforts to capture the markets of the South American republics at our doors, and yet we are still wrangling over side issues, mainly for political reasons and still supposed to be at war with Germany.

As a result we are losing the greatest opportunity for world trade that ever presented itself to any nation. It is true, the foreign nations need credit and that an association of American bankers has been formed to deal with that problem; but the bankers need the co-operation of the government and the public.

A conference of Pan American representatives of the financial interests of the South American republics is to meet at Washington, January 12, to discuss credit and trade questions; but the manner in which things at Washington have gone to smash, is rather disconcerting.

Still some satisfactory arrangement may be made through this conference under which our business with those countries may be increased or protected.

But the great opportunity of the hour is to send our raw materials and our machinery to Europe to help the stricken nations in the work of reconstruction. It is a call that appeals to all the people of this land as offering opportunities almost equal to those of war days, if industrial troubles could be put aside and all our energies applied for the purpose of increasing production.

THE MEXICAN TROUBLE

As usual, some of the sensational papers are beginning to work up a sentiment in favor of war with Mexico. The country has had enough of war for the present, and it is in order to wind up the war we have just gone through before taking on another.

It is very easy to say that we should "go down and clean up Mexico." There are many false reports coming from Mexico relative to the doings of the government and the bandits, and while it is undoubtedly true that Americans have been abused down there, it is equally true that there is a movement on foot to involve this nation government at defiance, and now it becomes a question whether the soft coal miners of the country, under their leader, Mr. Lewis, are a greater power than the United States government. That remains to be determined.

HARD WORK WINS

The king and queen of Belgium are back home in Brussels after what it is hoped they will always remember as a pleasant journey through the United States. When this royal pair first returned to their home about a year ago after four years of exile enforced upon them by the kaiser, the collars of the Belgians, according to a remark of Brand Whitlock, "seemed to fit rather loosely."

There are elements in this country that would welcome trouble with Mexico because it would offer them a better opportunity to make trouble here at home. They would side with Mexico as against us. Then it is not impossible that Mexico would call in the aid of Japan who for a territorial quid pro quo might be disposed to espouse the cause of our southern neighbor.

It is reported that Mexico is importing ammunition from England, for what purpose we know not; but while our jingo newspapers talk war, our neighbor may be excused if she takes steps toward preparation for a break that is openly threatened.

For a nation that has avowed such undying friendship for us, as has England, it is hardly in line with such good will, to be helping the southern republic to arm against us. But of course it is purely a commercial matter in which England has a right to sell ammunition to all comers. It was on this score that we justified our course in selling munitions of war to the allies, claiming that with equal readiness we should sell to Germany if she would only come and carry it away.

It is possible that some day in the not distant future, we may find it necessary to have a long reckoning with Mexico; but to precipitate a real war at this time would place this nation in a very complicated if not a dangerous position, not that we could not handle Mexico alone. That would require at least one million men and if other powers lined up with Mexico, it would require still more. As we have said we want to clear up the loose ends of one war before entering upon another. But we may have to send an army down there for a special purpose as on former occasions; but it will not mean a declaration of war.

SENATOR LODGE'S FIGHT

United States Senator Lodge boasts that he is fighting President Wilson in opposing the League of Nations and that if necessary, he will carry the issue over to next year to be fought out in the national campaign. One would not suppose from this that President Wilson's fighting days are over.

The senator, in our judgment, does not elevate himself in the public esteem by making any such declaration. But if he carries the league controversy into next year's campaign, he should become a presidential candidate and fight the issue squarely before the people.

In this respect he would be the logical candidate of the opposition to the League of Nations and treaty in its present form. We should then have two presidential aspirants from Massachusetts, as the governor's boom on account of his attitude in the Boston police strike is still resounding throughout the land.

Unless the treaty be ratified, however, before the political conventions are held next year, Senator Lodge can hardly fail to be put forward as the representative of all the elements throughout the country that stand opposed to the League of Nations. Were he set up as a candidate on such a platform ex-Senator Crane would cast the Bay State vote against him.

HOME RULE IDEA

It is announced that Sir Edward Carson is not out opposing the new form of home rule for Ireland. For this he is to be commended as this mode of piling on to the ultimate consumer must stop somewhere.

That is what has spoiled the railroad brotherhoods and has helped to send the cost of living skyward.

The mine leaders have indignantly repudiated the offer of a 14 per cent increase as they had asked for 60 per cent and Sec. Wilson tentatively committed himself to 31 per cent.

Thus the matter of wages is complicated and the parties are now no nearer to an agreement than they were at the outset.

As a final step to save the country from a coal famine, Commissioner Garfield, with the approval of the cabinet, has decided to seize the mines and offer ample protection to all the miners who wish to return to work.

If none of them return, he will have to find other men to take their places in order to mine the necessary coal, as the people of the country cannot be allowed to freeze, nor can the industries be forced to shut down for want of fuel.

WELCOME HOME PLANS

Everything Ready for Celebration in Honor of Pawtucketville Heroes

Practically everything is in readiness for the welcome home banquet to be tendered the service men of Pawtucketville next Wednesday evening and the few minor details that have not yet been looked after will be completed at the final meeting of the committee, which will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the vestry of the Pawtucket Congregational church in Mammoth road.

The committee had expected that Congressman Rogers would be the principal speaker at the banquet, but a letter was received from the congressman yesterday to the effect that owing to the re-opening of congress he will be unable to attend.

Cornelius J. Cronin, chairman of the general committee, stated this morning that the banquet will not be the most important part of the program in relation to the welcome home, for in June it is hoped and expected that a monument will be dedicated to the memory of the Pawtucketville heroes at Passaconaway park, which will be erected on one of the approaches to the Pawtucket bridge on the Pawtucketville side of the river. Plans are now under way for the raising of a $5000 fund for that purpose and the committee hopes that the general public will donate freely, for they claim this is the first time that the district has ever asked for public subscriptions, and the cause is a good one, while the residents of the locality have always been very generous towards any movement started in the city.

Coming back to the banquet, the festivities will be held in the assembly hall of the Lowell high school in Kirk street and will start promptly at 7 o'clock. The men and women of Pawtucketville who saw service in the world war are requested to wear their respective uniforms on the evening of the banquet and they are also asked to report at the hall at 6:30 o'clock, while the time set for the other guests is 6:45 o'clock. Michael J. Lynch will be toastmaster of the evening and during the post-prandial exercises, which will follow the banquet addresses will be delivered by the following: Hon. Frank H. Pope, Hon. Charles E. Barton, Mayor Perry D. Thompson, Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan, Mr. Otto Hockmeyer, Winifred MacBrayne and Jos. Molloy.

There will also be entertainment numbers by Miss Frances Tighe, Commissioner James E. Donnelly, Francis A. Connors, Elijah Axon and Sergt. Thos. P. Delmore. At the close of the festivities general dancing will be started and continued till a seasonable hour, music to be furnished by the Columbia orchestra.

URGES PRECAUTION AGAINST SMALLPOX

Agent Francis J. O'Hare of the local health department, has received a communication from the state department of health asking that precautions be taken in this city against the possibility of an outbreak of smallpox here. According to the communication, this disease is very prevalent in the province of Ontario in Canada and it is feared that visitors from that country to this city may bring the disease here.

Mr. O'Hare has sent the following letter to a number of local physicians asking for their co-operation in warding off any outbreak of the disease in Lowell:

Dear Sir: I am sending you a copy of a letter received today from the state department of health as follows:

"Smallpox is increasing in the province of Ontario. There have been so many cases reported that the United States public health service has established a border quarantine. To give an idea of the seriousness of the case in Ontario the American Medical association of Nov. 22 states that there are over 400 cases in Toronto and many places quarantined."

The two centres of the province where the disease is prevalent are Woodstock and Stratford. The disease is also increasing in the province of Quebec. There have been 300 cases reported in that province alone."

You will readily understand that this letter is in the nature of a warning to the local health department to be on the alert for any possible outbreaks of the disease. I trust you will co-operate with the health authorities by reporting to us immediately any suspicious case coming under your observation.

Yours truly,

F. J. O'HARE, Agent.

Mr. O'Hare states that the city is free from smallpox at the present time and that what few cases it has had in the past have been traced to persons who have not been vaccinated. He urges local people who have not yet been vaccinated to attend to the matter at once as sessions are held daily at the city dispensary in the basement of city hall.

EXTEND TIME FOR BRIDGE REPAIR

Following yesterday's conference of public service commission and local officials on the matter of repairing the Lawrence street bridge over the Concord river, Prof. Lewis E. Moore, representing the commission, said that the city would be given an extension of six months before the street railway company would cease to operate its cars across the structure. Originally the date was set for December 1, but on the promise of local officials that immediate steps would be taken to repair the bridge, the extension was granted.

CLUB'S OLD QUARTERS VACANT.—The old home of Club Lafayette in Merrimack street is now vacant for yesterday the organization moved into its new quarters, the old Bowers' castle in Wannalancet street. Last evening a large number of members inspected the new quarters and all seemed elated with the new place. The annual meeting of the club will be held next Thursday evening, at which time directors for the ensuing year will be chosen. The reports of the treasurer and secretary will be heard and arrangements will be made for the formal opening of the new clubhouse, which may be some time during the month of January.

URGES CONTINUANCE OF SEACOAST DEFENSES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Necessity for the maintenance of defensive works at important and strategic points along the coasts of the United States is no less patent today than before the war with Germany, in the opinion of Major General William M. Black, chief of engineers. In his annual report, published today, General Black declared that "seacoast defenses had lost nothing in importance from the lessons of the war" adding:

"Rather was the extreme value of such works demonstrated. The Turkish forts at the Dardanelles served to prevent the taking of Constantinople and the opening of a line of supply for Russia. This instance alone, in its far-reaching consequences, proved the worth of seacoast defenses."

General Black expressed the opinion that heavy ordnance on railway mounts, "must be considered simply as auxiliary defenses" to the fixed and permanent works.

STEALING FLASH LIGHTS

Accused of stealing flash lights from automobiles parked in the down-town district during the past few days, five boys were arrested today by Lieut. Major and Sergt. Dwyer. They will be arraigned in Juvenile court Friday, according to the police.

On Aug. 1 Japan had a total of 724 vessels of more than 1000 gross tons in coast and ocean trade.

SWITCH OFF!

Put aside the Salts, Oil, Calomel, or Pills and take "Cascarets."

Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure, and fresh with Cascarets, or merely whipping them into action every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Oil, or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets gently cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the colon and bowels all the constipated waste; a matter and poisons so you can straighten up.

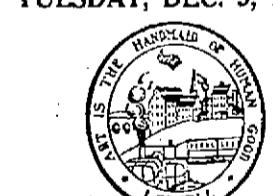

Cascarets tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, or cause any inconvenience, and cost so little, too.—Adv.

Christmas Business

Storekeepers and salespeople report already a Christmas business unusual for the holiday four weeks ahead. For years attempts to educate shoppers to buy early seem to be bearing fruit. Part of it must be due to the unusual lines of goods being shown. Beauty and utility seem to be the predominating notes. Formerly neither was considered in the matter of Christmas gifts, or so it seemed. Who does not remember the monstrosities in various forms which made their annual appearance at this time? To give seemed to be the one and only aim. What was given, its usefulness to the recipient, its beauty, its fitness to the occasion were wholly absent qualities. It is a welcome change, and unless I mistake, it will make an end of these terrible jokes where the entire family gathered about a gift trying to figure out what it was before telling the donor. It was something they always had wanted.

LADY LOOKABOUT.

SUEDE MAKES SNUG TURBAN FOR WINTER

BY BETTY BROWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Here's a hat that seems to say: "The smaller the smarter!"

Yet for all its smartness, it is roomy enough to fit snugly at the level of the eyebrows, defying the piercing winds. The hat is of tan suede, with soft, round crown and brim of the same lines. This brim, however, is most effectively embroidered, and through the embroidery discloses a touch of light blue panne velvet.

INDIVIDUAL TOUCH GIVEN ORANGES

Of all the persons who start the day with oranges, probably not more than 10 per cent ever think of the system which has made it possible for the fruit to be on the breakfast table.

SORT THEMSELVES

Most of the business of putting oranges on the market is done by machinery. The initial step, however, and a later individual touch are done by hand. The oranges are picked by hand, and taken to a packing house where they are fed into long runways. Carried along the runways by force of gravity, they automatically sort themselves by size, dropping into separate bins according to their size.

WRAPPED BY YOUNG WOMEN

Now comes the second bit of hand work. Beside each bin sits a young woman, with an orange box to be filled in front of her, and a tray of tissue sheets of the size for wrapping the oranges at her left. Her work is to take an orange from the bin with her right hand, grasp a sheet of tissue paper with her left hand and swiftly wrap it around the orange. Repetition of this movement fills a box within a short time. Replaced by an empty box, the filled one is nailed up, ready to be labelled for shipment.

WOLF NEAR CITY

A trap set in woods a few miles from San Francisco in the hope of catching a coyote or wildcat, recently snared a large gray wolf, having the largest pelt of any wolf ever caught on the peninsula. At the approach of the trapper the wolf pulled up a buried post, four feet long, to which the trap was attached, and started for the ocean. He dragged this post until he was shot after a pursuit of a mile and a half.

HAIL TO COUNTRY ROADS AND TURF OR FROZEN PONDS

Worsted sweater photographed by the Graphic News Bureau illustrates the new fringe style around the bottom of the sweater. The collar of Tuxedo extends the entire length as broad lapels; a narrow brown leather belt marks the waistline.

BY BETTY BROWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—When a riding costume is as smart and dashing, and yet as conservative, as the one of black and white checked plush in the center above, it is easily calculated to fill any athletic girl of the states with an overwhelming desire to go straightway and acquire a mount.

In the circular tabs over the hips and in the circular skirt over the tight breeches, the suit conforms strictly to the latest requirements of fashion. The collar facing and the bias bands that trim the tabs are of plain black plush.

Perhaps the lure of passing autumn makes itself felt in other ways

Miss Pearl White posed for a photograph by Fox Film, wearing an alpaca scarf of unusual breadth, and of a length reaching almost to the knee; particularly suitable to be worn as a skating wrap.

than that of riding. Be it motoring, skating or hiking, there is a wrap for each. Here is an "outdoor girl" sort of sweater, of pure worsted, trimmed and fringed with exquisite Jacquard Tuxedo—just the thing for hike.

On the other side is a warm Alpaca scarf, all ready for motor ride or skating party. Its width and soft red plaid border, contrasting with the dull green of the scarf itself, makes for a charm which is hard to resist.

With it, one of the soft velour sports bats in the same shade of green completes the picture.

SALE OF RED CROSS CHRISTMAS SEALS

The National Anti-Tuberculosis League, through its state divisions and local councils, on Monday next, launches its annual campaign for the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals. This is entirely an anti-tuberculosis drive, the Red Cross simply furnishing the seals and receiving no benefit whatsoever from their seals.

In Lowell the campaign will be conducted by the Lowell Anti-Tuberculosis council, made up of representatives from the Middlesex Women's club, the board of trade, the Lowell Guild and Social Service League. Rev.

Arthur W. Lyon of the Pawtucket Congregational church, has been appointed district manager for this section of the state which extends from Somerville to Lawrence. He will have headquarters in Room D, 196 Merrimack street, opposite Kirk street.

Lowell's quota has been set at $2000 and this city will have more than $100,000 to dispose of. They will be sold through the schools, stores, individuals and city organizations, such as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Community club. Pamphlets, explaining the drive more thoroughly, will be distributed throughout the city within a few days.

PUT ON YOUR NIGHTCAP

Your Brain's Getting Too Big for Its Shell—Ask Grandad, He Knows

"Now black and deep the night begins to fall, a shade immense; sunk in the quenching gloom, magnificent and vast, are heaven and earth."

And 'tis time to put your nightcap on!

Dr. Louis Saint Maurice, eminent French physician, so advises.

"If we wore nightcaps," he says, "we wouldn't have colds. There would be no influenza and we'd live longer."

Your brain has been developing at such a fast pace that it has thinned the cranium, according to this doctor. Now your brain is encased in an eggshell affair which furnishes little protection against cold air.

"Keep your head warm at night," the doctor urges. "Let's all go back to grandfather's day, and don nightcaps."

Grandpa can tell you when everybody wore 'em. Why, goodness, me! a person would as soon think of cutting off his right arm as to hit the hay minus his nocturnal headwear. And when we speak of nightcaps we're not referring to the liquid variety obtainable before July 1, and in some cellars even to this day.

There were all kinds of nightcaps, homely woolen ones, and dainty, frilly fluffy ones. You can guess who wore the pretty nightcap; father didn't.

And then when the house burned down at night you didn't have to stop and hunt for your kelly before venturing out in the cool air. You hustled out night-capped.

Besides warding off the cold breezes the night cap acted as silencer to your neighbors' snores, and it was impossible to hear the baby cry during the night until after mother had gotten up and quieted him.

MAN ESCAPES NOOSE; WIFE DISAPPOINTED

CHICAGO—Mrs. Leola Harris was deeply chagrined when she called at the county jail and learned that her husband, Henry, was not to be hanged, but that his sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment. "He was a worthless coon," said Mrs. Harris, "and I been keeping up the insurance on him for five years."

MOTHER AND SON HIKING FOR SCOUTS

From Philadelphia to Tacoma Wash., Mrs. Bertha James and her son, William, of Philadelphia, are hiking in the interests of the two Scout organizations, for girls and boys. Mrs. James is a captain of the girl scouts and her son is a boy scout.

It is planned that the trip be made entirely on foot. When the hikers reached Indianapolis they were photographed in their common-sense walking outfit, as they are seen here.

Although the cross-continent hike is being made initially for the girl and boy scouts, it is being used as a first hand school of instruction as well. While Mrs. James and her son are boosting the two organizations they are at the same time storing up knowledge. As they pass through city and country scenes, Mrs. James is giving her son practical lessons in geography. Locations of cities and towns, land formations, chief products and natural history take place of first importance.

Chinese Arrested by Japanese Forces

AMOY, China, Friday, Nov. 28.—Reports reaching this city from Fuchow state that many Chinese have been arrested there by detachments landed by Japanese warships. The district is anti-Japanese and feeling is reported to be very bitter. Reports from inland are that the situation there is even more serious.

Nearly 5000 English army huts of all descriptions, erected in France and Flanders, have been sold to the Belgian government.

USE Everybody Needs

a corrective and pick-me-up occasionally. No matter how well you feel now, you must admit that occasionally you feel rundown. When you're out of condition and not up to the mark, there is nothing better for you than Beecham's Pills. They are compounded with great care from the purest ingredients and are specially prepared for the relief of those forms of indigestion that so often becomes serious when neglected. A single dose is often enough to restore health and buoyancy of spirits.

Millions daily use Beecham's Pills.

BEECHAM'S

They are the finest tonic-apertif in the world, and enjoy the greatest popularity of any home remedy. Under the stress and strain of modern life a little medicine now and then is indispensable. Keep a box of Beecham's Pills by you in the home or in the traveling bag. They are a most convenient, well-tried remedy which will quickly relieve any derangement of the digestive organs. Disorders arising from error of diet, impure blood, sluggish liver and kidneys, sedentary habits and the like are soon remedied by the use of Beecham's Pills. You will find a periodical dose of this standard family medicine of the utmost value in keeping fit—clear-headed—alert. Whether at work or at leisure you need Beecham's Pills.

Sleeping Car Porters Are White Men—Cheap Meals and Whiskey Galore

BY EDWARD M. THIERRY,
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent With Smithsonian-Universal Expedition.
PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa.—
Travelling on a South African railroad requires a great deal of time, but it isn't so very expensive.

From Cape Town to Port Elizabeth, 661 miles (about the distance from New York to Cleveland) the fare was $30—though we spent 4 hours in the train.

The fare entitles you to a seat in a compartment for four. The economical and hardy traveller sits up both nights. But it only costs half a crown (60 cents) for a bed. The porter comes around and asks you if you want a bed—and he makes up two lowers and two uppers in a compartment.

Porters Are White

It's a paradox that in a land of black men the sleeping car porters are not black. They, like all trainmen, have to have certain qualifications. They must be able to speak and write two languages, English and Dutch. And they must be thin—because the corridor along the side of a car is of a minimum narrowness, due to the fact that the tracks are narrow gauge and the carriages not very wide.

Meals are many, but cheap. A cup of coffee is brought to your berth at 7 in the morning for six cents. Breakfast in the dining car comprises oatmeal, fish, meat, eggs, toast, marmalade and coffee—and it only costs 60 cents. Luncheon and dinner, neither of less than six or seven courses, only cost 70 and 85 cents, respectively.

Lots of Whiskey

Afternoon tea and cakes can be had for 12 cents. And the dining car is stocked with whiskey, beer and wines galore. Whiskey costs a shilling (24 cents.)

One and sometimes two small engines are used and they wheeze and snort and grunt as they take their tedious way over small hills. The first night we only made 125 miles in 10 hours and 20 minutes!

When we got to the village of Heidelberg in the morning, we were two hours and a quarter late. Then we waited an hour—while an engine that had been sent out from Riverdale, 22 miles down the road, ambled back home and got out of the way! The custom is, when a train is more than an hour overdue, to send an engine out to look for it to find out if an accident has occurred. Telegraphing would be useless, for stations are so far apart.

Like California Desert

The car windows give a desolate picture of a veldt that is depressingly desert-like. It is covered with small brush like the California brush land.

The strangest sight is of wild ostriches roaming around, sometimes trying to run a race with the poky engine and sometimes getting on the track and clogging transportation.

You also see plenty of springbok, a small antelope. It's the national emblem of South Africa, like the eagle in America, and has a multitude of commodities like beer, cigarettes and mineral waters named after it.

Though largely desolate, the scenery is brightened often by a sight that would make a Fifth Avenue florist dream he was in heaven. Here funeral bouquets are cheap; calla lilies, that break your bank account back home every time a friend dies, grow wild. Natives sell them to tourists for a couple of pennies. Normally they are used to feed hogs—and are called hog lilies.

STRIVES TO PLEASE
HIS CUSTOMERS

A firm's reputation always depends on the word of its customers. With this fact in mind, one cannot but know that the Dutton Street Tire Shop at 255 Dutton street, certainly has a very good reputation because their customers always come back for something else, the first purchased article having proven its worth.

Peter Machias, the proprietor of this progressive tire shop, makes a special effort to please everybody at all times. He does expert vulcanizing which always gives perfect satisfaction.

With the present cold weather Mr. Machias strongly advises the use of the Red Star non-freezing solution as the best solution on the market for automobile radiators. One of the remarkable facts about this particular solution is that it will not freeze even at 30 degrees below zero. This concern also carries a full line of accessories and are agents for the famous Weed chains.

FITTING A BEAR WITH NEW TEETH

A grizzly bear may wear out his teeth, just the same as a human being. When he needs new ones he gets them, particularly in America. More animal dentistry has been done here than in any other country.

Once, when an old pet bear belonging to the owner of a well-known menagerie was fitted with a complete set of false teeth, it was necessary to tie the plates to the bear's mouth to keep them in place.

GREATEST MAN HUNT IN HISTORY

United States Army Aids in Carlisle Search—King of Outlaws

"Don't Rob Women" is His Shout as He Goes Through Trains

(N.E.A. Special to The Sun)
DENVER, Nov. 29.—To capture or to kill Bill Carlisle, most spectacular of all the long list of western highwaymen since the days of Jesse James, is the purpose of the greatest man hunt in history.

Thousands of miles of wild territory are being scoured by posses, and for the first time by detachments of United States cavalry in the endeavor to round-up the lone-handed outlaw.

Suspected Admirers

It is suspected that the theatrical chivalry of Carlisle has won for him the admiration of many who are willing to give him shelter.

Porters Are White

Several New England shoe manufacturers with good business foresight have sent reliable men into this region to study up what the people want,—so to give it to them.

What Mexico Needs

Mexico—a country of perpetual political tumult—offers good trade opportunities and presents another illustration of how manufacturers and exporters should study the local markets. Bruno Newman, a Mexican importer of long experience outlined for the American Chamber of Commerce in Mexico City what he believes are the chief requirements for American success in that field.

Correspondence by all means should be in Spanish. Mexican courts will not admit as proof correspondence or documents in any other language. When English is used the Mexican buyer has the advantage, since he can present his English correspondence in any court in the United States.

The exporter should insist that his organization give good service in the way of intelligent packing, and should employ a competent forwarding agency to attend to the routine of ocean shipments and customs declarations. Consular invoices should be consolidated as far as possible, the greatest possible number of shipments being included in one consular invoice.

The question of credits should be given the most careful consideration since many Mexican importers are deserving of the greatest faith with respect to their obligations. Reliable credit information can be obtained through commercial agencies and banks. Ninety-day credit from the United States is said to be sufficient to compete with six months' European credit. The Mexican law with respect to collection of drafts with protest instructions attached is drastic, permitting an attachment within 24 hours of nonpayment of such a draft.

It seems needless to say that the export department of American firms should realize that personal and social contact is of great importance in obtaining Latin American business, and tactful methods of correspondence and negotiation mean a great deal towards obtaining practical results. That there is a growing market for American commerce in Mexico is testified by consular agents and trade commissioners. Consul W. E. Chapman at Mazatlan points out an important consideration in the matter of agriculture. In Sinaloa a larger amount of American farming machinery, including disc plows and cultivators and some tractors, is being imported than has ever been known before. Not only does this condition pertain to American interests, but to native agricultural interests as well.

The fact that no import duties are assessed on farming machinery has a wholesome effect upon agriculture. American interests continue to remain far in the lead in the mining industry also. American mine machinery is almost exclusively in demand. Through judicious personal dealing with these industries the manufacturers in the United States can remain in control of this important business.

Machinery More Widely Used

Machinery of all sorts is being used more extensively in Mexico. For example an American citizen has opened a factory for men's wearing apparel in Piedras Negras. The present output consists of overalls, uniforms, shirts and Palm Beach suits. Just as soon as local girl labor can be sufficiently trained it is planned to make extensive expansion of this industry.

April 21, 1916. Wrote a letter to a Denver newspaper announcing that he would hold up a Union Pacific train in Carbon county, Wyoming. Kept his word.

April 22, 1916. Captured and confined in the Rawlins (Wyoming) jail. May 11, 1916. Sentenced to life imprisonment.

Sept. 11, 1919. His sentence commuted to 25 to 50 years by the board of pardons.

Nov. 15, 1919. Escaped from prison. Nov. 18, 1919. Held up the Union Pacific's Limited between Rock River and Medicine Bow, Wyoming. On the same day helped himself to arms, robes and ammunition from the special train carrying a posse to capture him.

Telegraphed the Union Pacific authorities from Casper, Wyoming, ridiculing their detectives.

Going to shelter him, or at least to refrain from betraying him.

He is a man of one idea. He is resolved to be known as the most daring bandit in the annals of outlawry, and at the same time, as the most gentle.

"Don't rob old men, women, children, soldiers and sailors!" Carlisle shouts as he strides through a train, cowing everyone in range of his gun.

While he was serving a life sentence in Wyoming, many persons he had robbed corresponded with him.

Needlework Expert

He was a model prisoner, and distinguished himself as a needlework expert. He sought a parlor, but the best he could obtain was the combination of his sentence to 25 to 50 years.

So he nailed himself up in a shirt box, was shipped out of prison, and promptly resumed his looting of Union Pacific trains.

Prior to his capture, he had entertained himself in Denver by taking music lessons and spending his money on the neatest girls he could meet, keeping them lavishly supplied with candy and flowers.

While resting between jobs in Central City, Colo., Carlisle taught a Sunday school class, with zeal and success.

Dime Novel Ideas

In all probability, his dime novel ideas will cost Bill Carlisle his life. His purveyors have orders to shoot on sight, and train robbery in Wyoming carries the death penalty.

"He cannot get away from us for very long," Union Pacific authorities insist.

Well—he's been loose now for 14 days.

Trade Sentiment Continued

and $750. What the Italians most appreciate in an American shoe, aside from its pleasing appearance and durability is its shape-holding quality. Rubber shoes are practically unknown in that country.

DANISH ENVOYS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Denmark has sent two of its most prominent women as advisors to its delegation at the industrial conference of the League of Nations here. Above is Fru Marie Hjelmar, member of the Danish senate, and below, Fru Elsa Munck, wife of the minister of war, member of the Danish lower house and president of the Danish Woman Suffrage Association.

League of Nations

of the election of a senate which, without changes in the views of the hold-over members, would ratify the league covenant even in the sixty-seventh congress.

Michi Swing Over

Should the results, however, show that the people of the United States believe this nation should enter the league, and assume its part of the burden of maintaining world peace, there is little doubt but that the bolting democrats and enough of the "mild reservationist" republicans (who, by the way, were not "mild" reservationists) when the treaty came to a vote would swing their line to permit ratification.

In the meantime, will the League of Nations become a working force without the participation of the United States? All four of the other principals associated in the war against Germany, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan have ratified the treaty and the league, except in the case of France, these ratifications have not yet been deposited at Paris, as is necessary before becoming effective.

It is suggested that the refusal of the United States, which assumed leadership in drafting the league covenant, to come in under its provisions, may result in the final formalities necessary for the organization of that body being withheld by the nations that have so far ratified, and that the whole structure will rapidly crumble and disappear. South American countries which had been expected to follow the United States in joining the league, may now withhold participation, even should the European nations proceed to organize it.

There is steadfast belief, however, among believers in world peace, that the league will be set up with the depositing of ratifications by at least three of the principals in the war, and that sooner or later the United States will take its place among the members.

Political animosities, which largely shaped the fight in the senate, will not forever be permitted to stand in the way of permanent peace, they declare.

Fight May Divide Parties

For the immediate future, however, the contest in the United States will be political.

It will not be a straight out fight between republicans and democrats, but may tend to divide parties, particularly the G. O. P.

In states having senatorial primaries, for instance, followers of Taft and other republican supporters of the league will put up republican candidates on a league platform to contest for the nominations against republican members who joined with Lodge in his fight against the treaty.

So the people will have a chance to express their views not merely at the final election next September, but also at the primaries.

MINERS FREED

Released From Jail on Promise to Go to Work

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Nov. 29.—On promise to return to work, the 62 miners held in jail here since last Wednesday, were released last night. All mines in the Sheridan field now are working with production almost normal.

AUTOS IN COLLISION

William Tower of 218 High street, Lawrence, informed the local police last evening that his automobile was struck and damaged by a Lowell machine on the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard last evening and he requested that the operator of the Lowell car be apprehended. The police after investigation found the Lowell machine in a garage in High street. The driver admitted being in a slight mishap on the Lawrence road and said after the accident he stopped his car. He was not held.

The great demand for chestnut lumber for railroad ties has been responsible for many chestnut forests being wiped out and more are marked for the woodman's axe.

Earthquake Shocks in France

PARIS, Nov. 29.—A slight earthquake shock, lasting several seconds, was felt at 4:00 o'clock last night, at Cannes, in the Riviera, it was announced in messages received here this morning. A heavier shock was experienced a half hour after midnight at Foix, 45 miles south of Toulouse, at the foot of the Pyrenees. Only slight damage was done at either place.

A despatch from Toulouse received Friday night, reported earth tremors Friday morning in a wide area around Ragnères de Luchan, about 60 miles southwest of Toulouse, near the Spanish frontier. No serious damage was reported.

range in age from four and five up to 12 and 13 and have the varying degrees of exuberance that those ages bring, but at no time has the library allowed any undue commotion in the room and by pointing out to the children that their noise disturbs those who wish to read she has succeeded in appealing to a side of their nature that has always responded.

Not only has Miss Kyle given a most efficient administration in the children's room itself, but her extension work has won the admiration of many local teachers and parents. She has formed library leagues, home library groups, story telling hours, etc. Miss Kyle has made a large number of friends during her stay here and her departure will be deeply regretted. She will leave within a month with her mother, Mrs. Nellie Kyle, to visit relatives in Baltimore.

Through Miss Kyle's efforts only the highest types of children's books have been allowed on the shelves of the children's room and the result has been the maintenance of one of the highest standard collections of books for younger people anywhere in the country. Her ideal has been to have the books which, the children read well written and varied in scope and in this ambition she has fully succeeded.

Many a Lowell boy has won success in life that may be traced to the reading of a simply written book suggested to him by Miss Kyle in the children's room. Only the other day she received a card from a former Lowell boy who is now representing a big firm in Scotland, who wrote that his success started with the reading of a book on mechanics that she had given him.

One of the features of Miss Kyle's regime in the children's room has been the constant discipline which she has maintained among the children who are accustomed to visit the room. They are no serious shortage of soft coal in Lowell at present, according to E. A. Wilson, one of the city's representative coal dealers. Although the strike of the miners has made it difficult to get coal, the miners have agreed to return to work and the coal dealers are doing their best to supply the demand.

Statistics collected by the workmen's compensation bureau, and submitted to the insurance department, indicated that for many classifications of industry the rates were higher than were necessary to pay the losses incurred and give the insurance companies a fair profit. Former Insurance Commissioner Hardison, as his last act before retirement last January, wrote a report stating that in his judgment many of the rates were too high, and this estimate has been fully substantiated by the study made by the new commissioner.

It appears from the new schedule put into effect by Mr. Hobbs' order that out of 285 of the most important industries in the state, rates have been reduced in 225, while in 47 classes they have been raised, and in 13 they remain unchanged. Included in the latter category are boot and shoe manufacturing cotton spinning and weaving, shoe stock manufacturing, printing, wholesale stores and bookbinding.

Reliable authorities reckon the coal fields of China as equal in value to all the other coal fields of the world combined, but so far they are practically lying idle.

EDDIE BORDEN
The Eminent Comedian at the B. F. Keith Theatre. Next Week.

SPECIAL PICTURE NEXT WEEK AT THE STRAND—SAKED CONCERT SUNDAY

Another strong program of picture features—not the regular run of films but real specials—will mark the week's picture offering at The Strand for the coming week. Mary Miles Minter in "Anne of Green Gables" and Earle Williams in "The Black Gate" will be shown the first three days, and May Allison in "Fair and Warmer" and Peggy Hyland in "A Girl in Bohemia" will be shown the last of the week.

For the sacred concert on Sunday the following vaudeville acts will contribute to the biggest show in town: Lowe & Fox, character singing and talking; Dan Summers, comedian; The Murphys; Mahoney & Rogers. The feature pictures will be a revival of Douglas Fairbanks' million dollar production "His Majesty the American."

"Anne of Green Gables," in which Mary Miles Minter is to be starred for the first three days of the week, is one of the latest and most popular by the Realart Pictures, and should go down in satisfying patrons that the management has again made a lense in securing the services of this high-grade brand of picture entertainment. Too much has been said of the worth of the stars in too many events to rehearse at this time, but the events that contribute in making it one of the best products of its kind that the theatregoing public or reading public has enjoyed in some seasons.

Earle Williams, another prime Lowell favorite in the "The Black Gate" will be the other big feature for the first three days. The power of great strength as a factor to gain immunity for evildoers is revealed at work in dramatic fashion in this picture story. The picture is packed with dramatic incidents.

Coming next Thursday, Friday and Saturday is May Allison in one of her new feature pictures, "Fair and Warmer". The picture is an adaptation of one of the most successful farces ever presented on the American stage.

ran for two years in New York City and elsewhere for the C. L. Jones. The picture concerns the tribulations of two married couples. Don't miss seeing it. The picture is even funnier than the stage production. Miss Allison is seen in her most entertaining role.

"A Girl in Bohemia," the sensational New York favorite with Peggy Hyland at the star, will be the other thing on the program. The dainty and charming star is said to be most happy in her impersonation of the daughter of a college professor whose ambition to write a popular novel on so-called Bohemian life in the artist's section of a big city, the adventures and Bohemian surroundings are amasingly interesting and full of dramatic situations.

The usual offering of comedy and Universal Weekly will make the bill extraordinary. You shouldn't miss it.

"WITHIN THE LAW" OFFERING FOR COMING WEEK AT THE OPERA HOUSE

"Within the Law," the play that started Jane Cowl in one of the greatest stage productions of recent years, is to be the offering for the coming week by the Lowell Players at the Opera House. In the production of

MAY ALLISON
Who Will Appear in the Big Stage Success, "Fair and Warmer," at The Strand the Coming Week.

SCENE FROM "WITHIN THE LAW" AT LOWELL OPERA HOUSE.

NEXT WEEK—SUNDAY PERFORMANCE

The special Sunday performances at the B. F. Keith theatre, tomorrow afternoon and evening, will bring to light some of the best acts of the present week's bill, together with two other acts which have been specially engaged for the day. Dorothy Van and Frank Ellis and their associates of "Flirtation" will give a singing and talking act, and Eddie Gilder, the personality piano, will deliver over especially fine brace of song numbers. In addition there will be Eddie Williams & Co., the Bramins, Jessie Leonard and Eddie Forray—all from this week's bill—and Denver & Helen, and Majorie Miller.

An Oriental Spectacle, fresh from conquests in Europe, will top off next week's show at this theatre. Captain Maximilian Gruber and Mlle. Adelina are the sponsors for this specially fine animal act. Although there are but four animals—an elephant, a horse, a camel and a dog—the dash with which they execute their work and the semiingly impossible feats they accomplish form the very last word in animal performing.

Another special act for the week will be presented by Eddie Borden, who is rated everywhere as a genuinely funny man. He gives "The Law Breaker," and has the part of a gentleman burglar. However, this burglar is so gentle that one almost doubts his ability to break into a house. Mr. Borden is assisted by "Sir" Frederick Courtney.

A girl with bundles of talent and an originality every minute of the time she is on the stage is Olive Briscoe. Al Rauh is associated with her in the original work. Miss Briscoe sings and dances along interestingly. Her "stuff" is all high class, not a mediocrities line in it, and she will be warmly received.

An engagement extraordinary is of the celebrated Cansino Brothers and Flores Spanish Dancers, who surprised the noted Besse Clayton during her recent tour. These dancers have "everything" in the parlance of the day. Other acts are: Henry V. Tomer & Co., in a comedy sketch; McDermott & Heagney, singing their songs, and the Parshleys, international instrumentalists.

usefulness in the world wide work of construction and advancement, therefore.

"Be it resolved: That we, as representatives of the more than 20,000 federated women of Georgia, do hereby endorse the action of our president and congress and the state already ratifying the same, and respectfully memorialize the general assembly of Georgia to ratify the said amendment, thereby placing our beloved commonwealth on the side of justice and progress."

STYLES IN GLOVES

Since the vogue for short sleeves has brought back into fashion long gloves, French glove leathers have gone to unprecedented prices. The 16-button length is predicted as the favorite for spring style in the United States. The length of from 12 buttons to 20 buttons are selling well in Paris, of leather, silk and chamois-suede materials.

Whatever may be the opinion of the Georgia legislature concerning the ratification of the federal suffrage amendment, Georgia women are not going to rest content until their beloved commonwealth puts itself "on the side of justice and progress."

Women of the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs, representing more than 30,000 Georgia women, recently in convention at Columbus, Georgia, passed a resolution calling upon their general assembly for prompt action on the nineteenth amendment. Their resolution reads:

Senate Resolution

"Whereas: In response to the earnest appeal of the president of the United States, both houses of congress by a two-thirds vote adopted and the chief executive has approved, an amendment to the federal constitution, giving the women the right of suffrage, and

"Whereas: already eighteen states have ratified said amendment, being in recognition not only of the service and sacrifice of women in the great war, but also in recognition of their

responsible action of our president and congress and the state already ratifying the same, and respectfully memorialize the general assembly of Georgia to ratify the said amendment, thereby placing our beloved commonwealth on the side of justice and progress."

BUILDING ACTIVITIES

Many Buildings Underway

Despite High Cost of Labor and Material

Albert J. Ryan, a local real estate man is developing a large tract of land in Dracut just beyond the city line and according to present plans no less than 125 houses will be erected in the course of the winter, spring and summer. This land is located at what is known as Fox terrace on Willard street and at very close proximity of Bridge street and the electric car line. Mr. Ryan has laid out five streets and has already erected eight 8-room cottages, while batters are up for several others. Work will be carried along during the winter as long as weather permits, but the real boom will be started in the spring.

Fifteen Cottages.

Alfred Lequin is also developing a large piece of land, but his activities are in Lowell for he is now working on the erection of eight houses in Riverside avenue and Delard street. Each house contains six rooms with pantry and bath. Mr. Lequin, has also made plans for the erection of seven other cottages in the same thoroughfares and as soon as the first lot is completed he will start on the second. He is also remodeling his home at 271 Hildreth street, where he will expend at

REAL ESTATE DEALERS

Paul A. Bogosian, real estate broker, office 210-220 Bradley building, 147 Central street, reports the following sales negotiated during the last week:

Conveyance has been made in the sale of a two-torment house located at 75-77 Belvidere street. The tenements consist of six and seven rooms with bath, furnace heat, and hot and cold water. There are 515 square feet of land, and the assessed valuation is $1370. This sale was made in behalf of Morris & Bertha Shapiro, and the purchaser was Molton K. McConan.

THOMAS H. ELLIOTT

Thomas H. Elliott, real estate broker, offices 61 Central street, corner Prentiss, reports the following transactions negotiated during the past week:

The sale of an excellent two-apartment property at 80-92 Bartlett street at its junction with Alder street. The apartments have six rooms and bath each, the plumbing throughout being of the most modern type. The land involved in the transfer totals 4170 sq. ft., carrying an assessment at the rate of 40c per foot. The grantors are Timothy Quinn and Julia Quinn; the grantees are Joseph M. Shannon and Bridget T. Shannon. Mr. and Mrs. Shannon are already in occupancy of the premises.

APPLETON WEAVE SHED

The brick work on the new weave shed for the Appleton Co., which is being erected in the yard of the company in Jackson street, is being rushed along. The masons have started on the fourth story of the structure, and unless the weather interferes it is probable that the new mill will be ready for occupancy in the early spring. This building will cost somewhere in the vicinity of $100,000.

BAY STATE COTTON CORP.

About 200 laborers and craftsmen are employed on the construction of the new mill for the Bay State Cotton Corp., at the corner of Broadway and Pawtucket street. This building will be of cement and already the foundations have been completed and the cement has been poured to the street level. This is a $1,000,000 plant and it is expected it will be several months before it is ready for occupancy, although men are kept on the job day and night.

OTHER BUILDINGS.

Charles Dumont has completed the erection of a two-family dwelling at 161-163 Woburn street.

Adolphe Lamontagne has finished his new home at 22 Colonial avenue and is now preparing to move into it. This building, which has a Kesterson finish, contains 10 rooms with the latest improvements.

E. G. Asselin is putting the finishing touch on his two-family dwelling in Plymouth street.

Frederick Desrosiers is completing the construction of his two-family dwelling in Riverside street.

WARN'S TAX EVADERS PUNISHMENT NEAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Warning was given tax evaders by Commissioner Roper of the internal revenue bureau last night that those who have falsified or made incorrect returns may expect "to be called upon any day for an accounting." In no case will leniency be shown corporations or individuals who have attempted to defraud the government, the commissioner said.

The government's drive on tax evaders thus far has netted approximately $200,000,000 more than the amount called for by the returns filed early in the year. Mr. Roper said these figures resulted "merely from scratching the surface" of the huge accumulation of tax returns.

Field agents of the bureau are making a survey of all returns and checking up with books of corporations for possible irregularities, he added.

Mr. Roper estimated that approximately $500,000,000 would be collected during the year 1920 through the campaign $200,000,000 of it by June 20, 1920, in addition to $200,000,000 already collected.

Since the recent announcement of the findings of the bureau in the case of the Crucible Steel company, he said, many corporations and individuals have voluntarily presented amended returns, the bureau's action having awakened many taxpayers to the fact that their returns have not been in strictly regular form.

STRUCK BY MOTORCYCLE

Fireman John Rhinehardt Seriously Injured at Westford and Royal Streets

John J. Rhinehardt, of 101 Gates street, a fireman connected with Steamer 3, Palmer street, was struck and seriously injured by a motorcycle driven by John J. Regan of Phillips street, at Westford and Royal streets at 6 o'clock last evening. A passing automobile carried him to St. John's hospital where his name was placed on one of the dangerous list, with a possible fracture of the skull. He had a fairly good night, however, and seemed to be resting comfortably this morning.

Mr. Rhinehardt was struck with terrible force just after he had left the Westford street electric car and was walking across the street to the sidewalk. He left the car by the front door and passed around the front of it. The motorcycle, which was running out of Westford street, swung around the car to the left onto the inward bound traveled way instead of stowing down and remaining on the right side of the street. When struck, Mr. Rhinehardt was approximately six feet from the curb and was walking diagonally across the pavement with his back to the approaching motor. The motorcycle turned a complete somersault and crashed up against the far corner several feet away. Regan was unhurt except for a slight injury to his left wrist.

Mr. Rhinehardt was unconscious when picked up by witnesses of the accident and blood flowed from the side of his head and one ear. He wore his fireman's uniform at the time and was on his way home during his supper hour.

When questioned after the crash, Regan said he sounded his horn as he swerved to the left side of the street and that he was unable to reduce the speed of his motorcycle in time to avert the accident.

various matters that came up during the past two years.

On the other hand, Mr. Gilbride attacked the mayor's administration, deplored the present tax rate, and said that the appointment of J. Joseph Hennessy as city auditor without letting the public know that Mr. Paige had resigned was a piece of "high-handedness."

Up to yesterday, the mayor had said nothing in public relative to the appointment of Mr. Hennessy. The matter has been a subject of constant discussion since last July. In his opening address yesterday, however, the mayor indicated that he realized the public interest in the matter by speaking of it before anything else. He said that the former city auditor, Mr. Paige, had recommended Mr. Hennessy for the position as the man best fitted in Lowell because of his experience in municipal matters.

Mr. Gilbride came back today with a question addressed to the mayor as to why Mr. Paige's resignation had been "kept secret" and why other Lowell men were not given an opportunity to seek this office besides Mr. Hennessy.

Mr. Brown et al.

During the early part of the week the limelight shifted to George J. Brown, candidate for alderman, who stated that he had been refused information concerning the city's present financial condition by City Auditor Hennessy. Mr. Hennessy's reply was the appearance of the monthly financial report on Tuesday which he said would answer Mr. Brown's questions.

The latest development is an interrogatory addressed to Mr. Brown signed by George T. Hobden of 17 Third avenue. Mr. Hobden asks Mr. Brown to tell what his expenses in the fire and water departments were in 1917 and 1918 and what was the cost of Cook wells in 1918 in comparison with this year. He also asks if Mr. Brown did not lay off men in the water department to reduce expenses. It is expected that Mr. Brown will again take the stump during the coming week.

No Politics—Absolutely

When the names of the speakers at the dedication of Centralville's memorial tablet to her service men tomorrow were first published, the "polls" thought they were in for a little feast of spellbinding with two Centralville nominees on the list—John F. Salmon, candidate for alderman, and Thomas B. Delaney, candidate for school committee, both of whom headed the list in their respective contests at the primaries. But the nature of tomorrow afternoon's occasion will not be political in any respect. However, Centralville will have an opportunity of seeing in action two of her sons who next year may grace the corridors of city hall.

Two Years Ago

At the mayoralty election two years ago a total of 13,357 votes were cast for the candidates for the chief executive's office. Perry D. Thompson receiving $501 and Dr. Rodriguez Mylnait 4785. If the mayor receives this many a week from Tuesday he will again be elected. The total registration of the city is slightly over 17,000 and if every voter were to go to the polls, which won't happen, the winning candidate would have to have over 8,000 votes. But in the normal course of events, 8,000 votes will elect Lowell's next mayor. And that makes provision for a pretty substantial attendance at the polls.

To Demand Showdown

Continued

Carranza and General Alvaro Obregon, presidential candidate, served today to ease the tenseness of the relations between Mexico and the United States. The state department, however, had not altered its determination to enforce the demand for the prompt release of American consular agent Jenkins, imprisoned on the charge of conniving with the bandit captors.

Another American Murdered

On top of the already delicate Mexican situation, was the report of the murder of another American, W. M. Wallace, oil man, who was shot by a Carranzista soldier. This, combined with the Jenkins case, was expected to spur the state department to strong diplomatic action against the Carranza government, which has been warned repeatedly against mistreatment of American citizens.

Aches and Pains of Rheumatism Sometimes Almost Unbearable

There are weather conditions that make rheumatism worse. They are not the same in the cases of all persons. Some victims of this disease suffer more in dry warm weather than in moist cold weather, but all suffer more or less all the time.

The cause of rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood, affecting the muscles and joints. Hence the blood must have attention for permanent results in the treatment of this disease.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has given entire satisfaction in thousands of cases. Do not fail to give it a trial.

If a laxative is needed, take Hood's Pills—they don't grime.

For a showdown once and for all if the repeated killing and maltreatment of American citizens continue, and the American consul general remains confined in prison on what American officials believe are trumped up charges. The state department has indicated plainly that argumentative diplomacy will not divert the government from its course from dealing with a serious international situation.

Action, Not Words

Secretary Lansing, in conference with Mexican Ambassador Bouillas, yesterday, put the issue flatly before him and explained pointedly that the American government had demanded action and not words in the Jenkins' affair. The state department's formal reply to the Carranza message may be delayed several days, pending the accumulation of verified facts dealing with the Jenkins case and other cases.

Eight Americans Killed

Eight Americans have been killed in Mexico within the last few months, and government officials and members of Congress have expressed indignation over the apparent laxity of the Mexican government in dealing with the outlawry.

SUCCESSFUL HUNTING SEASON ENDS TODAY

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 20.—The hunting season which will close today, one hour after sunset, has been the most successful in years. Not only do the records of game shipments show big increases over recent years, but wardens say that they do not recall a season when so many hunters big game into the Maine woods seeking big game.

Up to today noon, 1811 deer, 28 bears and 23 moose had been received at Union station; these figures not including game taken out of the woods in automobiles, the number being transported by this means this season being unusually large game officials say.

TO SEND 400 WORDS A MINUTE BY WIRELESS

SAYVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Apparatus for sending over 300 to 400 words a minute by wireless is to be installed soon at the naval radio station here, it was announced today.

The present speed of wireless at the Sayville station is 10 words a minute.

Some cable sending machines do 100. The new system has been used successfully at the naval trans-oceanic wireless station at Annapolis.

KREISLER CONCERT FINALLY CANCELLED

LYNN, Nov. 29.—A concert by Fritz Kreisler, the Austrian violinist, which was to have been held here tomorrow, was cancelled today. Because of protests by the American Legion, Mayor Creasmer had refused a permit for Kreisler's appearance, but state sanction for a "sacred concert" was obtained. When the mayor announced that he would have a jury of 12 musicians determine whether Kreisler played other than "sacred" music and would have police present to make an arrest in the event of any violation of the permit for such a concert, the proposed appearance of Kreisler was cancelled, and other players substituted.

There will be speeches every noon and evening by both candidates next week and neither will cease their efforts until a week from Monday night when the campaign will end. The next morning, Tuesday, Dec. 3, the polls will open at 6 a. m. and between that hour and 4 p. m. Lowell voters will decide who their next mayor is to be.

The aldermanic candidates, with the exception of Mr. Brown, who spoke yesterday after Mr. Gilbride at the Tremont and Suffolk mills, have not taken to the stump since the city primaries but it is expected that Mr. Salmon will do so. Commissioners Morse and Donnelly have heretofore confined their campaigns to personal solicitation and will undoubtedly do so this year. The school committee candidates are not expected to go on the stump but each is working hard among the voters.

The Opening Shots

Both candidates came out strongly in behalf of their campaign principles in their opening addresses yesterday but there was not the slightest hint of personalities. Mayor Thompson not only refused to accept the defensive side of the campaign but assumed the offensive by asking his opponent what he would have done as mayor in the street but has not definitely decided.

Last evening Mr. Gilbride addressed the Allied Shoe Workers' union in Leather Workers' hall and the mayor also spoke at a number of informal club gatherings. Mr. Gilbride spoke at the Centralville Social club Thanksgiving eve and the mayor will visit that section of the city tomorrow.
